NO DISCLOSURE OF AGENDA IS MADE

LONDON, Jan. 23 (CP).—Reports that the conference of Far Eastern naval chiefs in Singapore, opening today, might be of high Imperial importance, were described in authoritative circles here as "exaggerated."

Although it was stated from semi-official sources that the meeting was of a routine character, and no departure of any kind was contemplated from the original purely local defensive policy for the Far Eastern divisions and the Singapore base, London newspapers reported the meeting at length. The Evening Standard, a Beaverbrook organ, went so far as to describe the conference editorially as "an event of high Imperial importance."

NECESSITY RECOGNIZED

The Standard, exponent of Lord Beaverbrook's Empire-first policy, referred to the "vital necessity" of defending the Empire's trade routes, a necessity recognized the world over, and added that Japan understood the Singapore base was no menace to her.

"It no more threatens her than Gibraltar threatens New York, the distances being about the same," the paper said.

Concerning a report that Field Marshal Lord Allenby had traveled from Java to sit in on the conference, an authoritative spokesman declared Lord Allenby's visit to the Far East was in purely a private capacity, and that at the present time he had no connection with the Government.

It is also pointed out that the naval commanders' discussions must be purely academic as far as questions of high policy are concerned, these, of course, being matters for the respective governments.

WAITING FOR STABILIZATION

British Prime Minister Admits Impatience—Hopes World Conference

LEEDS, England, Jan. 23 (AP).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald expressed impatience in a speech, tonight, with the failure of nations to stabilize currencies.

He declared stabilization is one of the first necessary measures to build up the "machinery of a co-operative world," and maintained the British Government is watching for a chance to resume the World Economic Conference as soon as possible.

His address, given before 3,000 persons in the Town Hall, was one of a series of National Government rallies.

EXPRESSES IMPATIENCE

Referring to stabilization, Mr. MacDonald said: "I confess I am impatient with the slowness of nations to stabilize currency.

"I am watching every opportunity that may enable us to get together again, with the agenda prepared by world experts at Geneva, and get the Governments to come to agreements which will remove unnecessary barriers and increase the stream of international trade."

TRADE AGREEMENTS

Stressing the importance of foreign trade to Great Britain, he said a series of bilateral treaties were being negotiated and must be carried on.

When he started to discuss the British foreign policy, hecklers shouted, "Stay to home!" A chorus of "Amens" followed his declaration that the British Government stands loyally by the League of Nations.

FEARED LOST IN GULF OF GEORGIA

Abbotsford Man Missing From Ship After Leaving Vancouver for Victoria Recently

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23 (CP). — Vladimir Alexandroff, seventy, a Russian, who resided at Abbotsford, is believed to have been lost overboard from Ss. Princess Joan in the Gulf of Georgia, recently.

The man failed to reach Victoria after departing on the ship from Vancouver last Thursday. His raincoat and bag were discovered in the ship's smoking-room.

He was a widower, and is survived by a daughter in Berkeley, Cal. He was a lawyer in Harbin and Vladivostok, and eight years ago came to Canada and took up farming near Victoria. He later moved to Abbotsford.

Answers Criticism of Easterners on Western Claims for Assistance

FAVORS WORKS PLAN AND REMONETIZATION

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — Criticism of Easterners who describe the Western Provinces as continually begging for assistance, was expressed here today by Premier T. D. Pattullo, of British Columbia, in Toronto, en route home from the Dominion-Provincial Conference at Ottawa.

"We are not mendicants," the Premier said. "In British Columbia we paid into the Dominion Treasury in the five-year period ending in 1932, a total of $20,000,000 more than was spent by the Federal Government in British Columbia, including our share of the national debt, and the Federal Government, today, is collecting more from the Province than we are.

REPLIES TO CRITICISM

"I don't say this," he added, "in a cantankerous fashion, but only by way of reply to the sneering criticism of our representations."

The Premier declared himself in favor of public works programme instead of direct relief for the jobless. "We are not broke," he continued. "All that is wrong is that we are short of cash for the moment. We have the wealth and the resources to make good any borrowing we may do in these times."

Premier Pattullo described British Columbia business conditions as on the road to recovery. Questioned regarding over-government in the

Canada Keeping Place as Fifth of Exporting Nations

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP).—Canada held her position as the world's fifth exporting nation during the first ten months of 1933, but the United Kingdom replaced Germany as the second on the list, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from League of Nations sources.

The United States continued to hold first place by a narrow margin over the United Kingdom, while Germany occupied third place, France fourth and Japan sixth. The relative places are computed on values of exports in gold dollars.

Witnesses Agree In Telling Story Of Lack of Food

Evidence of Hardship and Privation Given at Port Alberni Inquest on Chinese—Adjourned for Attendance of Camp Owner and Reports of Pathologist From Vancouver

(Special to The Colonist)

PORT ALBERNI, Jan. 23.—A story of hardships, privation and want, which finally ended in death, was unfolded to a coroner's jury last evening, which was sitting to inquire into causes of the deaths of Wong Quong Ying, age fifty-one; Leung Yuen Hung, age forty, and Lui Pong, age fifty-three, with Dr. A. D. Morgan as coroner.

In his address to the jury, Dr. Morgan stated that evidence would probably show that the men came to their death from a disease known as beri-beri, and it was the duty of the jury to ascertain in what manner the disease was caused.

FOREMAN'S EVIDENCE

The first witness called was Clive Simpson, who acts as foreman at what is known as Camps One and Two, Canoe Pass, where shingle bolts are being cut for a Vancouver concern operated by D. M. Calhoun. He stated that he was called to Camp Two when a Chinese employee advised him that a Chinese had died, and several more were sick. This was on Wednesday last; that on Thursday, the eighteenth of this month, another member of the camp had died. The police had arrived on Thursday, and the nine employees were removed to Port Alberni, where a third employee died on Saturday night.

Under examination by Sergeant Markland, of the Provincial Police, he stated that at times the camp

Esthonia Now Is Ranked as Fascist State

TALLINN, Esthonia, Jan. 24 (AP). —A new Fascist state was born at a midnight Cabinet session, and was hailed with a salvo of twenty-one guns.

In accordance with a plebiscite last October, Prime Minister Constantin Paets assumed the functions of the President of the Republic until he is officially elected.

Under the new Esthonian constitution he is empowered to issue laws by decree and veto any laws adopted by Parliament. He can also dissolve the Diet.

Lost His Life by Putting on Shoes

BAKERSFIELD, Cal. 23 (AP).—Because he paused to put on his shoes, George W. Hitchcock, seventy-nine, was burned to death, today, when trapped by fire in the home on the V. A. Caldwell ranch, near Greenhorn Mountain.

Billy Caldwell, six, said he awakened Hitchcock when the house caught fire, but that the elderly man remained inside until he had put on his shoes, and then was unable to get out.

Original Public Enemy Murdered

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP).—A man identified by police as William (Three Finger Jack) White, a major Chicago hoodlum once tried for murder and one of the original public enemies, was shot to death in his well furnished suburban Oak Park apartment tonight by two men who escaped.

EARLY RELEASE NOW EXPECTED

St. Paul Banker Still in Hands of Kidnappers After Week

ST. PAUL, Jan. 23 (AP).—Officials' fear over the fate of Edward G. Bremer, held by kidnappers for nearly a week, was allayed tonight by revelation that he had not been threatened with death.

As the time when close friends said release of the captive banker, for whom $200,000 ransom has been demanded, drew near, their predictions were that he would be freed within twenty-four hours. Sources believed reliable disclosed the original kidnapping note containing only a warning, not a threat.

CONTENTS OF NOTE

"You better pay off first and let them (meaning the police), do their detecting later. You better not cross us" was the version they gave of contents of the note, which was found by Walter Magee, wealthy friend of the Bremer family, shortly after the thirty-seven-year-old bank head was seized last Wednesday.

Reports continued throughout the day that contact had been made by the family with the kidnappers through a second note conveyed, Monday, to Adolph Bremer, father of the missing man. It was reportedly signed by the victim.

Moves to Reduce Amount of Goods Exempt From Duty

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Declaring Canadian merchants were taking thousands of dollars' worth of trade from Americans each year by catering to buyers in border cities, Representative Beiter, New York Democrat, prepared today for introduction of a bill which would prohibit purchasers from carrying more than $10 worth of merchandise into the United States at one time. The present limit is $100.

HOPES FOR COMMISSION

Premier Taschereau Favors Appointment to Study Western Provinces

QUEBEC, Jan. 23 (CP).—Hope that a Royal commission would be appointed to study the economic situation in the four Western Provinces, as had been suggested at the conference, was expressed today by Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec in reviewing before the Quebec Legislature results of last week's Dominion-Provincial Conference at Ottawa.

Premier Taschereau divided his review of the conference under four headings, the situation in the West, unemployment, the Companies' Act and lotteries.

OBVIOUS OBLIGATION

Commenting upon the situation in Western Canada, Premier Taschereau said "it is very sure that it is Quebec and Ontario, which provide 80 per cent of the revenue of Canada, that will be finally obliged to contribute in this proportion to the aid to be given to the Western provinces.

"I do not wish to deny their credit or paint the situation darker than it is, but they themselves admit they are in a very difficult situation. We all wish them well, and it would be unfortunate if any of the sister provinces of Canada were driven to bankruptcy. Yet it is very certain that these four provinces, and certainly three of them, have had a tremendous amount of difficulty in facing conditions.

PAST ASSISTANCE

"It must not be forgotten," the Premier continued, "that in the past, Ottawa has helped the provinces of the West considerably. It guaranteed railway obligations and that was the principal reason why the Federal authority took over the Canadian National Railways, freeing the Western provinces from that responsibility.

"It was proposed at the conference that a Royal Commission, as in the case of Newfoundland, examine the situation in the West and suggest means of remedying it. I hope this suggestion will be carried out," the Premier said, adding that such a commission, of course, would be independent of party politics.

NEPAL REPORTS HEAVY DAMAGE

Details Lacking in Legation Message—Havoc Wrought in Many Districts

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 23 (AP). —Reports of heavy damage and loss of life in the Khatmandu Valley of Nepal Province, in last week's earthquake, were mentioned today in a message received by the Foreign Office from the Legation in Nepal.

Details were lacking. The province has been virtually cut off from the world since the major shock of January 15.

Dispatches from Calcutta said cold weather added to the discomforts of thousands made homeless by the shocks.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 23 (AP).—Eight hundred bodies were officially reported, today, to have been recovered from earthquake ruins in Muzaffarpur, India.

DYNAMITE BUILDINGS

Damaged buildings on the point of collapsing were dynamited. Railroad communication from Muzaffarpur was due to be resumed tonight.

Dispatches from Patna, which suffered extensive damage also in earthquakes that shook India a week ago, said law courts there were sitting in the open air.

The experience of two Englishwomen and three children, living twenty miles off Dharbangi, were related in a letter received here today. Rushing outdoors just as their house collapsed behind them, they faced new terrors. Continued shocks threw them to the ground and earth fissures appeared all around them. These they avoided only with

FIVE PERSONS FEARED DEAD IN WIDESPREAD PRAIRIE BLIZZARD

Father Nearly Loses Life in Search for Three Children Believed to Have Perished at Sunnynook, Alta.—Two Fail to Reach Home in Saskatchewan

Storm at Saskatoon Reported To Be Worst in Two Decades

WINNIPEG, Jan. 23.—Five lives were believed lost tonight on the windswept prairies of Alberta and Saskatchewan where a terrific blizzard developed early today. Manitoba was within the storm area but no loss of life in the province was reported.

Three children were believed victims of the blizzard when returning home from school at Sunnynook, Alta., where their father almost perished in his search for them. In Saskatchewan, a woman and her grown-up son were missing. They left the railway station at Tessier for their home early today and are believed to have driven off the trail with their team of horses and perished.

Snowstorms started throughout the Prairie Provinces early in the day and were whipped to blizzard proportions by noon. Tonight, the storm was almost as intense, with temperatures below zero, after two weeks of fair weather. Cessation of the blizzards was forecast for tomorrow, with lower temperatures expected.

SCANT HOPE REMAINS

HANNA, Alta., Jan. 23 (CP).—After an exhausting day of fruitless searching in one of the worst blizzards experienced in this district in years, virtually all hope was given up tonight that the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stifle, of Sunnynook, would be found alive. Mary, fourteen; Vernon, twelve, and Pauline, eight, are believed to have perished in the lonely three-mile stretch of prairie between the children's home and school. The storm continued its fury tonight, preventing any further search after nightfall.

The children's father nearly perished when he became lost, after setting out with a team in search of his children. After wandering for hours, he managed to reach shelter, and search parties began a hunt which dragged through the snow-swept day, without success. Royal Canadian Mounted Police will resume efforts in the morning, but little hope is held that the trio may still be alive.

IS LOST ON SEARCH

The three children left home at 8 o'clock this morning to go to school. Shortly after they had disappeared on the bare prairie, the

Ready for Opening of Parliament

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP). — The finishing touches were applied today to the Speech From the Throne to be delivered at the opening of Parliament, Thursday, and the Dominion Cabinet spent long hours on the estimates which will be tabled early in the session. Cabinet Council sat afternoon and evening deliberating almost entirely over financial matters.

It could not be stated tonight just what date will see the estimates tabled, but it will probably be early next week.

The several judicial, senatorial and departmental vacancies outstanding were not discussed at today's meeting of the Government, it was stated.

GIVE NO SUPPORT TO MILK STRIKE

Mainland Farmers Vote Against Withholding Supplies — Favor Market Control Legislation

CHILLIWACK, Jan. 23 (CP).—A total lack of support for a proposed milk strike among Fraser Valley producers, and a consequent tie-up of the flow of milk to Vancouver and other Mainland points, was shown tonight, following meetings of producers of the Farmers' Co-operative Union at New Westminster and here.

More than 450 producers of this district, who met here, tonight, refused to take any action toward instituting a strike. Instead, a resolution was passed asking both the Dominion and Provincial Governments to pass marketing legislation which would enable the dairy industry to regulate the sale of its products. The resolution will be sent to Victoria and Ottawa.

Look to Britain For Next Move

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP).—France today appeared to have virtually abandoned hope of a disarmament agreement with Germany, and looked to Great Britain for the next step in the tangle.

Great Britain was reported seeking an arms meeting in Paris of German, French, British and Italian representatives.

NO TAG DAYS ALLOWED

CALGARY, Jan. 23 (CP).—The City Council today refused to allow any organization to hold a tag day in the city during 1934.

RAIN CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Man Killed When Engine Crashes Through Flood-Weakened Bridge

SEATTLE, Jan. 23 (AP).—Wind and rain plagued the Pacific Northwest again today, but weather bureau forecasts of colder weather gave hope of relief.

William Skidmore, fireman of a Northern Pacific passenger train, was killed when the locomotive and tender crashed through a bridge weakened by the flooded waters of Middle Potlatch Creek, near Juliaetta, Idaho.

Washed out dykes let high waters of the Cowlitz, Coweeman and Lewis Rovers in Cowlitz County, Wash., flow into areas still suffering from the floods of a month ago. Kelso, Woodland and Castle Rock felt the advance of flood waters.

Sections of Wallace, Idaho, were again inundated by flooded Placer Creek.

YAKIMA THREATENED

The Yakima Valley was threatened with a recurrence of flood conditions, unless colder weather prevails in the mountains. Cowiche Creek overflowed its banks, and train service to the Tieton Basin was stopped for the day when tracks were flooded. The Naches River was rising.

The Oregon coast highway was blocked by slides in several places. The Willamette River rose at Salem and there were slides on the streets of Astoria.

PINNED UNDER TRUCK

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gunn, of Granite Falls, were pinned for an hour under their truck when a tree was blown down upon it, before they were discovered. They were brought to an Everett hospital for treatment.

In Grays Harbor County, high waters in the Chehalis, which had nearly reached the level of the first December flood, and which again had flooded large lowland areas, were receding tonight. A number of roads were closed by the high water, but all, with the exception of several county roads, were expected to be reopened tomorrow.

FAVORABLE TRADE BALANCE

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Jan. 23 (CP).—The New Zealand Government reported today the country had a favorable trade balance in 1933 of about £20,000,000. It placed total exports at £41,000,000 and imports at £21,000,000, approximately.

Vote of Confidence Passed With Rioting In Chamber and Out

All Available Police Battle With Street Mobs in Paris, With Mounted Guards Repulsing Crowd Marching on Legislative Building

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP).—The French Cabinet wrested a vote of confidence from a riotous Chamber of Deputies this evening while all available police battled with street mobs shouting "Stavisky Cabinet, resign!"

A vote of 386 for and 201 against was given Premier Camille Chautemps after a bitter struggle over Opposition charges of official corruption in connection with the $40,000,000 collapse of the Bayonne Pawnshop and the operations of its founder, the late Serge Stavisky.

EXPLOITING SCANDAL

The Premier's own name, as well as those of Air Minister Pierre Cot, Minister of Justice Raynaldy, Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour, Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, and Minister of Commerce Laurent-Eynac, were dragged into the debate, which Chautemps called a "systematic exploitation of the scandal."

Republican Mounted Guards rode the sidewalks of Boulevard St. Germain, repulsing the largest crowd of the three days of the rioting, and preventing them from marching on the Chamber building.

LEAGUE MAY BE ASKED TO ACT

Germany Fails to Reply to Austrian Notes—Independence Threatened

VIENNA, Jan. 23 (AP). — The ticklish task of rescuing Austrian independence, it was indicated tonight, may be thrown in the lap of the League of Nations unless Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss gets a conciliatory answer to his ministry's demarche to Berlin on January 18.

An Austrian representative in Geneva already has inquired as to the procedure to be followed in case Germany continues silent or answers the communication unsatisfactorily.

WOULD OFFER DOCUMENTS

If Austria complains to the League it will not be accusing the Hitler Government directly of organizing terrorism in Austria, high circles said, but it will submit customs documents and bills of lading showing explosives were shipped from Germany to Nazis here and will demand that Germany repudiate or suppress such shipments.

Chancellor Dollfuss and his advisers were represented as not overlooking the possibility that action by the League may be long and drawn out—perhaps too drawn out to matter. But, it was said, it at least would relieve the present regime of the sole responsibility for future developments.

WILL GO HOME TO CLAIM ESTATE

Englishman, Over Thirty Years in Canada, Comes Into Handsome Inheritance

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23 (CP). — Ernest Kellett Long, fifty-eight, who came to British Columbia more than thirty years ago, will return to England to claim a Norfolk estate, inherited from his bachelor uncle, Fortescue Kellett Long.

Long came to Canada in 1890. After five years on a Saskatchewan farm, he came to British Columbia and mined for a time near Atlin. Later, he came to Vancouver, where he has lived for the past twenty-five years.

The estate he inherits is Dunstan Hall, four miles from Norwich, in Norfolk. It includes 3,555 acres of farm land and £32,000.

Twenty Men Ashore When Byrd's Vessel Forced From Berth

Work of Expedition Goes On Regardless of Separation When Wind Rises—Supplies Being Hurried to Depot and Caches

ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP, BAY OF WHALES, Antarctica, Jan. 23 (AP) (via Mackay Radio).—The second Byrd Antarctic expedition was forcibly separated today when the flagship was driven from her berth along the low shelf of crumbling ice by a strong southeast wind.

Twenty men were marooned ashore, three in the old Winter camp at Little America, and the rest distributed among empty supply caches, four and a half miles south of the edge of the bay ice and the unloading station at its edge.

WIND DYING DOWN

The vessel at noon was cruising slowly within the higher barrier walls of the bay, waiting for the weather to moderate. The wind already had commenced to die down and it was likely that a mooring could be effected shortly.

The work of the expedition went on regardless of separation. From midnight on, one could make out from the ship, with the help of a glass, men towing supplies on the bay ice, the dog teams hurrying loaded sledges to a transfer depot a mile and a half to the southeast. Two tractors were ferrying the stuff to the emergency cache three miles further on.

A BROAD HIGHWAY

During the last four days the runners of the sledges and the broad treads of the tractors had worn a broad highway across the smooth plain of the bay ice. Orange colored flags marked it off, sunk at 100-foot intervals. All along were piles of boxes, crates and bags of food and other materials, arranged so that the breaking up of the ice, which was in continuous progress, would not endanger a large amount of stores.

The wind sprang up early last night while unloading was in full swing. It picked up clouds of drift, driving it down the shiny walls so that it felt like a waterfall, and the cold draught pouring over the warmer waters of the bay formed a thick smoke, which in a short time completely obscured the water.

A DANGEROUS SWELL

Although the barrier rolling to the south showed in the midnight sun with undiminished brightness, the bay swell, together with the push of wind, slowly started to carry away the four telephone poles which were employed as cast-offs to keep the ship from smashing her planks against the submerged ice foot.

Admiral Byrd gave orders to cast off and unloading ceased instantly. At 12:30 a.m. the ship moved out of blinding sunlight into the chill fog of the bay.

The ship was scarcely clear before the shore gang was piling up stores upon waiting dog sledges. The imminence of bad weather and the danger that the inconstant wharfage would suddenly start out to sea caused Admiral Byrd to apply the lash.

A MONSTER FLOE

Saturday afternoon a floe as long as twenty city blocks, and almost as wide, broke off just half a mile from where this ship lay. It happened suddenly and quietly. Since then, both to the right and left of the ship, large floes have been constantly separating from the main flooring.

One encouraging discovery was made. At first it was thought that the 450 tons of supplies would have to be hauled upwards of twenty miles. A fairly short passage has been found which cuts the distance to 6.3 miles.

Finn Ronne, on a long expedition, made the discovery. He traversed the west edge of the pressure area, composed of high sides and deep crevices, southwards from the edge of the bay, and after four and a half miles of rather dangerous exploring, he found a feasible passage. He went sleepless forty-seven hours to do it and risked his neck twice, breaking through thinly-roofed crevices and saving himself by bridging the opening with his arms.

CAME OUT FAST

"I was traveling over what appeared to be firm snow," he said, "when suddenly I was clutching at the snow with both arms and my skis were swinging in empty air. When I looked down I saw water about forty feet below. You bet I came out there fast."

The crew excavating Little America was ordered by radio to establish a camp where an emergency cache will be placed on the west side of the passage. A dozen dog drivers, five tractor drivers and four members of the aviation unit are now living there in tents. A radio operator is maintaining constantly hourly communication with the ship and with Little America.

THE COOK'S PROBLEM

Al Carbone, by his own modest claim the best cook in the Marine Corps, was faced with the problem of setting up trail cookers. A dog driver came in with the report that Carbone said he would rather try to cook dinner for a regiment in a Derby hat.

STATE CHANGES UNACCEPTABLE

Amendments to U.S. Monetary Bill Opposed by Administration Leaders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Determined to give President Roosevelt the unrestricted powers he requested in his monetary bill, administrator leaders tonight said a major limitation imposed by a rebellious Senate banking committe was unacceptable and began preparations for a rousing floor fight for its elimination.

The committee wrote into the measure amendments creating a five-man board to administer the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund that would be established by the bill for the protection of the dollar's foreign value, and upon this the Democratic leaders concentrated their fire.

THREE-YEAR TERM

Another change made by the committee placed a three-year limit upon the operation of the fund and upon the time in which the President might devalue the dollar. Considerable support appeared in the Senate for this provision.

As sent to Congress by the administration, the bill provided that the Secretary of the Treasury should have sole authority to administer the fund and to expend it in any type of commercial transaction he might deem necessary for the purpose of stabilizing the dollar abroad.

Establishment of Livestock Yards in Victoria Sought by Junior Chamber

Steps were taken by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, last night, to establish a livestock market in Victoria. Negotiations which have been carried on between Frank Partridge, vice-president, and Mainland breeders, were consummated at last night's meeting, and arrangements will now be completed for the sale here of some prize herds.

The plan is to establish a livestock market in Victoria, where breeders from all Up-Island points may assemble to either buy or sell livestock.

ENDORSE GALA

The Junior Chamber also endorsed a project, advanced by George E. Willis, whereby a swimming gala will be held at the Crystal Garden, for the purpose of collecting used clothing for the unemployed. Used apparel will be the admission fee to the gala.

Trustee P. E. George, chairman of the new finance committee, explained the scheme for amalgamating group funds into one bank account, and that proposal was unanimously endorsed.

DEBATING CONTEST

A report from the debating group told of the elimination contest that was being held in the city for the purpose of choosing a team to meet the visiting Bates College debating team.

Howard Tyrrell, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that several projects were being considered by his committee, designed to raise funds for the Junior Chamber.

Trustee George also gave a resume of the Canadian products group work, while Walter Miles, past president, gave a resume of the work of the Junior Chamber during the past few years.

with naval chiefs from Australia and New Zealand, today opened a conference to discuss naval policy in the Far East.

The meetings were held in strict privacy aboard the cruiser Kent, flagship of Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Charles Dreyer, Commander-in-Chief of the China station, and it was believed a wide range of problems was being considered, possibly including completion of work on the great Singapore naval base.

(In authoritative quarters in London it was said the meeting was of a routine character and press dispatches were described as exaggerating its importance, although London newspapers devoted extensive space to reports of it.)

Rumors of plans to complete the naval base two years ahead of schedule preceded the conference, but received no authoritative support. New work on the great base and dockyard was postponed for five years at the Imperial Conference in London in 1930.

COMMITTEE TO REPORT

Preliminary discussions by a special committee of high naval officers had been held aboard the Kent in the past week, it was learned, and this committee was to report to the full conference.

The agenda of the meeting was not disclosed, but it was believed here to include discussions of Singapore's future, the Far Eastern situation generally, general policies concerning the Singapore naval base and progress of construction here.

Interest was added to the parley as coinciding with significant naval developments such as the speech of Premier Koki Hirota of Japan on Japanese policy, and the launching of gigantic warship construction proposals in a bill before the United States Congress. The holding of the parley, however, was not believed to have been connected with these developments.

Mobs clashed repeatedly with heavy police reinforcements and the Mounted Guards, and kept shouting "The parliamentary regime is rotten," and demanding the resignation of the "Stavisky Cabinet."

WARNING GIVEN

A warning that Premier Camille Chautemps, himself, and three members of his endangered Cabinet would be named in documents on the Stavisky scandal, was served them today by Deputy Philippe Henriot.

The chamber was thrown into confusion by announcement of the deputy's action. Shouting wildly and banging their desks, Government supporters drowned out Henriot's voice. For more than half an hour, deputies shouted epithets, shook their fists at each other, and yelled as Henriot first subjected Chautemps to questioning on his career in Parliament, in law, and who his friends were.

Vice-President Delbos finally suspended the session.

Carving of Odd Monster

Indian Claims He Saw Big Monster Appear From Sea

Queen Charlotte Native Had a Carver Reproduce Strange Amphibian in Black Stone—Fishing Boat Crew Saw Weird Creature

EXISTENCE of strange creatures in the waters off British Columbia Shores has long been implicitedly believed in by Indians. Recent interest in Cadborosaurus, following statements by reputable men and women of having seen a strange monster in Cadboro Bay and elsewhere in the vicinity of Victoria, finds ready acceptance among the natives of the Coast.

Weird amphibians have been reported from time to time along the Coast, and following the appearance of a strange creature on the shores of Queen Charlotte Islands, a statuette was carved from the black rock of the island by an expert Haida craftsman. The work was done within a few hours of the time one of the older members of the trioe reported a peculiar experience, and was made from his description.

LOOKED LIKE CANOE

It was fifteen years ago that the carving was made. A middle-aged, and highly respected member of the tribe, reported that he was walking on the beach on the east side of Graham Island. It was a bright, sunny day. He saw approaching what he first took to be a canoe. It was coming at a fast speed, and appeared to have a peculiar type of sail, so he kept it in view. On its nearer approach he saw that it was not a canoe, but a strange creature. He ran and hid among the boulders just back of the beach. His first impression was that it was one of the legendary figures of his people.

He kept his gaze fixed on the creature. On reaching shallow water the big, fin-like sail was lowered, and a form resembling a bear, but having a large dorsal fin and wing-like fins, used as sails, on its sides, walked ashore. It had tusks like a walrus. What had been used as a secondary sail he now observed was a tail—which had been extended like that of a peacock.

WALKED ON BEACH

The amphibian, he reported, came ashore and walked up and down on the beach for a time.

He says he watched it for fully twenty minutes, and on one occasion it came near to his hiding place. Eventually it re-entered the water and, again hoisting sail, disappeared in the distance.

He ran home as fast as he could, gathered his friends together, and told them of what he had seen. His son, who was a black rock carver, set to work at once, and fashioned a replica of the creature, according to his father's description.

In 1921, it is recorded, the captain and crew of the fishing boat Iris, inbound to Prince Rupert, ran close to a strange marine monster, that closely resembled the amphibian reported by the Haida Indian, although they had never heard of his story.

About the same time two reports of such a peculiar creature having been seen came from Alaska.

FRUIT MARKET IS DISCUSSED

B.C. Canners Should Ship Under One Label at One Price, Speaker Declares

A definite effort will be made by the agricultural group of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, of which Warren Martin is chairman, to bring about the shipment of canned loganberries to the British market under one label and all in one shipment.

At last night's meeting of the junior chamber, M. C. Davies, who has spent the last fourteen months in England in connection with developing the loganberry market for British Columbia, gave an address in which it was shown how British Columbia was losing the vast bulk of the canned fruit trade to Oregon simply because its shipments were not made under one label, in one shipment, at one price.

Oregon, last year, shipped 100,000 cases of loganberries to England all under one label, at one price, and in one shipment. This sort of business being far more advantageous than buying small British Columbia parcels at varying prices, had a damaging effect on the British Columbia product, he said.

The meeting decided to have Mr. Davies give a more detailed account of the canned fruit market to the agricultural committee of the chamber with a view to the chamber taking the matter up with the British Columbia market commissioner, to see if some definite action cannot be taken toward improving the system of shipping canned fruit.

air was filled with a choking swirl of snow. Realizing his children's peril in the storm, the father started out with a team immediately, but was forced to turn back, after being lost a good part of the day.

As the storm continued unabated, tonight, fears were expressed that when communication throughout the country is restored, further similar cases may be reported.

TWO ARE MISSING

TESSIER, Sask., Jan. 23 (CP).—Tragedy, it is believed, floundered tonight in the drifted trails of the worst blizzard this district has known in the last fifteen years. The conviction grew that Mrs. James Morris and her twenty-one-year-old son, John, farmer, residing seven miles north of here, had perished in the storm which raged from early morning.

Arriving here for a visit, Mrs. Morris, of Zealandia, and her son, left the depot at 10 o'clock, and tonight, were not reported anywhere in the district. It is feared that the team they were driving strayed off the trails and that man and woman perished in the severe weather.

FORCED TO GIVE UP SEARCH

After all farms in the district had been canvassed, a search party was organized this afternoon and followed the line Mrs. Morris and John would have taken, but after two hours, were forced to abandon the search, as men and horses became exhausted bucking the high drifts. Members of the party believed nothing could live for twelve hours exposed to the driving blizzard, which piled up snow against the fences and filled all depressions so that the land looked like a flat plateau.

Arrangement have been made tonight for five search parties to continue the hunt at daybreak, tomorrow, but little hope of finding the couple alive is held out.

WORST IN TWENTY YEARS

SASKATOON, Jan. 23 (CP).—Central and Northern Saskatchewan, tonight, was in the grip of the worst blizzard experienced in this district for the past two decades.

Starting early this morning, the wind quickly assumed the proportions of a mild hurricane and, accompanied by heavy snow, formed mountain-high drifts in all directions. Communication with rural areas was impossible and no estimate of the damage could be obtained, but it was considered certain that livestock must have suffered severely in the storm.

In the city, street railway services were completely disrupted. Trams were able to operate only on downtown streets, and vehicles caught in outlying suburbs were completely snowed under.

Woman Convicted Of Manslaughter; Son Is Acquitted

EDMONTON, Jan. 23 (CP).—William Fusty tonight was acquitted of a charge of murdering his father, Fred Fusty, at their farm home near here December 24, while the young man's mother, Mrs. Lilian Fusty, was convicted of manslaughter by a supreme court jury.

A strong plea for mercy for the woman was attached to the jury's verdict. Mr. Justice J. R. Boyle reserved sentence on the woman till Thursday, saying he would hear pleas of defence and Crown counsel in the interim. He also expressed willingness to hear any delegations on the woman's behalf.

VICTORIA MEN MADE OFFICERS

Canadian Ass'n of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux Convenes at Quebec

QUEBEC, Jan. 23 (CP).—Representative of the travel interests of the Dominion of Canada, with delegates of governmental, transportation, civic, hotel and mercantile bodies in five provinces in attendance, the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux was held here today.

Reports presented showed activities carried on by the component groups of the association, had aided in maintaining the tourist traffic at a relatively higher level despite the economic conditions of the past year.

There was a general agreement that, with improving business conditions, the outlook for 1934 was brighter than at any time since 1929.

GIVES ANNUAL REPORT

George I. Warren, of Victoria, retiring president, in his annual report, complimented the Quebec Government on giving a leadership to the other provinces in the encouragement of touring. The Dominion Government's contribution in providing national parks and fish and game preserves, were paid tribute.

During his tenure of office, he had made a special effort to interest the press of Canada in the tourist industry.

A resolution declaring that the Jacques Cartier anniversary of the coming Summer should be celebrated on a nation-wide scale, was passed unanimously.

UNIFORM LEGISLATION

A resolution urging uniform legislation by the Provincial Governments for the licensing inspection, classification and strict regulation of tourist camps, rooming houses, wayside stands, eating places and other establishments catering to tourists, in order to assure fair charges and a good standard of accommodation, was passed unanimously.

Election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary past presidents, Mr. Justice Arsenault, Charlottetown, and George I. Warren, Victoria; honorary president, Hon. J. E. Perrault, K.C., Quebec; president, C. C. Hele, Toronto; first vice-president, Lieut.-Commander G. F. C. Poussette, Winnipeg; second vice-president, D. Leo Dolan, Fredericton, N.B.; third vice-president, G. H. Webster, Vancouver; fourth vice-president, A. J. Campbell, Halifax; secretary-treasurer, George A. McNamee, Montreal. J. Gordon Smith, Victoria, was elected to the directorate.

West, Mr. Pattullo stated it might be possible to centralize governments in the Prairies, but that British Columbia was in a different position.

"As for the proposal to reduce the representation in the Legislatures, you hear a lot about that, but the saving would be a mere bagatelle, and the result would be a wider area of representation for the individual member with a consequent increase in bureaucracy or government by the civil service."

INTERESTED IN SILVER

British Columbia, he concluded, was "ready to pull her weight," and ready to do business with the Orient as soon as enough money is obtained in the Orient. For this reason he declared himself interested in the proposed remonetization of silver.

ARMY PILOT KILLED

WITNESSES AGREE IN TELLING STORY OF LACK OF FOOD

was short of food, although he could not understand why food had not been sent.

Last October, several white men had quit work, as there was no food to feed them. He understood that the Chinese always had plenty of food until about December 22, when expected supplies for the Christmas season had not arrived for them.

Constable Condon stated that he had visited the camp on Thursday, and finding two dead and others sick, had had them all removed to Port Alberni.

NO FOOD ARRIVED

The Chinese foreman gave evidence to the jury that the members of Camp Two had worked since the middle of August, 1933, and on and off had had supplies sent to them from Mr. Calhoun. That no food had arrived since December 22, and since that date the men had had nothing but salt and rice, and a few clams which they had managed to dig up on the beach.

Asked the question how much money they had received since they had started to work, he stated that neither himself nor any other member of the camp received a cent of money. That they had arranged with a store in Vancouver to forward food, and Mr. Calhoun was to pay their wages into the store; but the owner had advised him that, as he had not received any money for the past three months, he could not send any more food.

RECEIVED NO WAGES

From the middle of August until the middle of January they had received food, clothing and supplies to the value of $550, which averaged about $12 a month, but had received no wages. This evidence was verified by other Chinese, witnesses called.

The court was adjourned to February, in order to have reports from a pathologist in Vancouver, and for the attendance of D. M. Calhoun.

UNABLE TO EXPLAIN

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23 (CP).—D. M. Calhoun, of Vancouver, a member of Howard Point Lumber Company, which owns timber limits on which the Chinese were working, is unable to explain why the Orientals were taken ill.

"They had lots of good food—a variety of it," he stated this morning, after investigating the type of provisions sent out for the loggers' consumption. He plans to discuss the matter further with officials of Omar & Company, which is taking the timber out of the property.

NO MORE DANGER

PORT ALBERNI, B.C., Jan. 23 (CP). — Danger of further deaths from beri-beri among Chinese employees of a shingle bolt camp at Canoe Pass, B.C., is past, in the opinion of Dr. J. C. Thomas, attending the two men suffering from the disease in hospital here.

Steps have been taken to remedy the diet of men remaining in the camp, Dr. Thomas said, in expressing the belief there would be no further cases there.

"Squealing" Convict Shown No Mercy by Gangsters of Prison

Devil's Island Grape-Vine Telegraph Pursues Him to End of World Relentlessly—Authorities Powerless to Prevent His Doom

By GORDON SINCLAIR

ST. LAURENT DE MARONI, French Guiana.—You've heard of the Mafia and the Black Hand, those pre-Mussolini bandit gangs which terrorized South Italy. You've heard of Kentucky hill-billies who shoot it out now and again. You've all heard of Chicago's machine-gun killers who take rivals for rides from which they never return.

Gangland complete with feuds, intrigues, loves and hates. Gangland with its own big shots, higher-ups, rubber-outs and other high-sounding morons.

Gangland with its own executioner. Gangland which holds barrack-room trials inside prison walls and dishes out the death sentence with gruesome regularity.

LAST CONVICT SHIP

St. Laurent is terminal point for the last convict ship in the world. The Martiniere rounds up her cargo of human derelicts in Saigon, Indo-China; in Algiers, in Casablanca, and lastly in Rochelle, France.

Six to seven hundred at a time they are herded into two great holds in the grimy old ship; white men at one end, mixed breeds and colors at the other.

There is practically no discipline and certainly no duties aboard. Men may smoke, drink, sing, gamble and generally raise Cain if they feel that way. If they start tearing the ship up streams of live steam can quiet them.

Murders aboard are by no means uncommon. Hatreds spring up. Unprintable debaucheries take place and a few lasting friendships are formed.

Here, at St. Laurent, the new arrivals are shunted around from camp to camp, according to the degree of their ferocity. Only the meekest and tamest go to Cayenne; the worst of all go to the islands.

Jungle hems the steamy little town in effectively as barbed wire. It is so thick that, as you steam up the Maroni, branches are entwined together overhead. Parrots screech and the monkeys yelp from the trees.

A Dutch passenger aboard on the day I went up lost his dog when the over-fat dachshund tumbled into the soupy stream and was instantly spiked and bitten to pieces by tiny fighting fish which infest the water. The Dutchman, a roly-poly planter, wept hysterically for an hour.

Asleep on hand-made wheelbarrows lay fifty or sixty burned-out "liberes" waiting for death or a job. They didn't seem to care which came their way.

IRON-CIRCLED TOWN

Around the town was a circle of iron and steel dormitories housing a thousand bad men. There were forty to sixty in a room; killers, bandits, pickpockets, perverts, bomb-tossers. One was a doctor whose idea of a good time had been to cut women patients into steaks and chops.

By day these men make a pretence at work. They crack stones, clear trees, repair the wharves, and do other laborers' jobs, but no attempt is made at teaching them a trade. There is no library, dining-hall, chapel or shop here, but the guillotine is kept freshly greased for action.

As I look them over the words of Governor Lemay rang in my ears. "We don't aim to reform convicts. They are beyond reformation when they get here. France punishes; she does not molly-coddle."

From six at night until six in the morning these men are locked in their cages. There is no privacy. No man has a cell to himself. No man can avoid his enemies. No guards stalk the ramparts. There is no protection for the weakling. He gives all he's got and likes it or else!

Or else what?

Or else he's murdered!

Seldom a month goes by without the guards on morning rounds find a corpse spiked to the floor with a great clasp knife between his ribs.

They drag the victim out and mark him off the lists. They question the survivors. But the law of gangland rules. No squealers. Death to the squealer. Only two cases are on record of fellow convicts naming the executioner.

GANGLAND AT WORK

That was on transfer day when new arrivals filled part of a dormitory; bad men in from jungle chain gangs filled the other half. The tough eggs, first of all, seized most of the new arrivals' food. There were fights over that, but nothing more serious than broken teeth and black eyes.

Then other things were demanded. Money first. The bad men knew that new arrivals would have already learned the knack of secreting money inside their bodies. There were fights over this, too. New convicts were amazed and horrified to discover themselves in cells with armed killers. Yet every man is searched before they lock him up. They came across with the money.

Then worse things were demanded . . . you'll have to use your own imagination. Rebellion flared, bloody battles. In the morning two corpses stared blankly at the steel bars.

"All out," the guards sang. "Step along men . . . No! Back to your places."

The guards, pistols drawn, moved the corpses with their feet then clanged heavy steel doors and went out to report. The living convicts were silent—indifferent. This was old stuff to some of them. And, after all, life is cheap here. Cheap and meaningless in hopeless drudgery. In five years or less the mosquitoes will get you.

An examining board came back. Two trustees chucked the corpses into the big hinged coffin.

"Well," somebody demanded, "You're all here—now who did it?"

"Why, they killed each other," somebody said innocently. "They did, eh? And what were you doing."

"Who, me?" "Yes, you."

"Why I was sleeping, sergeant. Sound asleep." "Asleep, eh—then how do you know they killed each other? Come on, slip these on. We'll take you for a little walk." He clapped ankle bracelets on the man who had spoken.

AN ACCUSER

From the back of the room a pale little fellow, badly in need of a shave, stood up. "Sergeant it wasn't him."

"It wasn't, eh? Well, you seem to know a lot. Who was it? . . . No, no, never mind. Tell the warden." The guard was trying to save the young fellow now, but it was too late.

"It was him," the convict said, pointing an accusing finger. "They all told him to go ahead and kill him. And he killed them both."

The guard looked dismayed. A dozen men sucked in breath as if they had hit their thumbs with a hammer. That boy had just written his death warrant. Then, to make it worse, another young fellow got up.

"Yes, sergeant; it was him. That guy in the black shirt, I seen him." The guard was astonished and sorry. He hadn't expected to learn the name of the killer. He didn't care much.

Now he said: "Well, come on you two. Come out. We'll parade you." The two informers were taken to the warden. It amounted to a return from the grave. They could not have lived another hour in that cage filled with human beasts. But the warden was man-wise. He instantly shipped the two lads to Cayenne.

DEATH TO THE "SQUEALER"

Along the convicts' grape-vine telegraph spread the word "Squealers; two squealers. Get them."

Authorities were now fighting a hidden battle to save the two boys. They broke up one plot to slaughter them in Cayenne and transferred them to the lighthouse. I'll tell you about the lighthouse another time. It takes three men to run the light. They stay out on the rock six months. But these two didn't stay that long. The third man, picked from a jungle road gang, knifed one of the squealers, and was himself knifed by the survivor. All three were found in a state of collapse one night when the light worked badly. All three recovered in hospital. The two informers were shipped back to France and tucked away in separate penitentiaries. But even yet it is not sure if they will live; for the Devil's Island telegraph spreads mercilessly around the world. The law is death to the squealer.

CASTE SYSTEM IS HARD TO CHANGE

Indians Alone Can Do So, Maintains Rajah Singham in Address Before Club

"No one from the outside can alter the caste system in India. This must be done by an Indian," declared Rajah A. I. Singham, missionary from India, in an address to members of the Round Table Club at their dinner meeting last night in Speedie's Cafe.

He declared India presented one of the most difficult problems in the history of the world in the past fifty years. It was the meeting place of East and West, he maintained. Prior to the war, the Indians held a great respect for British administration, but 1914-18 gave this a "great jolt," he averred.

The last twenty years has been a period of disillusionment and propaganda against the British, Mr. Singham stated. There was a dual life in India: The business life, belonging to the twentieth century, and the private life belonging to the sixteenth century.

MAHATMA GHANDI

The speaker maintained that when Mahatma Ghandi started his work twenty years ago, he did so at the wrong end. Mr. Singham felt that he should have started at the bottom and appealed to the educated minority. There was a great cleavage between the young and old of India, with the former in revolt. The caste system was the cause of this and the youth of the country were opposed while the older residents did not wish to lose the privileges of this system.

"Eighty per cent of the people are not concerned with the political situation," declared Mr. Singham. A better spirit was being shown in India now, and there was a realization that self-government would mean giving control to a privileged class. He paid tribute to the work of Lord Irwin.

Mr. Singham is of the firm belief that if the people of India would whole-heartedly adopt Christianity their troubles would be solved.

CLAIM WHISTLES HURT THEIR EARS

Locomotive Engineers Seek Protective Order From Board of Railway Commissioners

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP). — The menace of locomotive whistles to the eardrums of engineers will be the subject of a hearing before the Board of Railway Commissioners, next week.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers seeks an order requiring the railways to place the whistles so that their shrieks will not beat so heavily on the ears of the engine drivers.

The complaint has been made that when an engine is going through a cut approaching a crossing, the engineer is obliged to sound his whistle, and the sound, confined in a narrow space, is likely to cause permanent injury to the hearing.

The application was to have been heard this week, but has now been set down for January 30.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of Robert M. Heintz, who passed away on January 19, was held yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Many friends attended, and the casket was banked with beautiful floral offerings. Rev. Canon A. E. deL. Nunns, rector of St. Mary's Church, officiated, and the following were pallbearers: R. H. Ley, E. A. Taylor, S. Warn and H. H. Beck. Interment was made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

SUNSHINE INN REPORT GIVEN

Meals Supplied at Institution During 1933, 113,596, Statement Shows

An indication of the valuable work being done locally by the Sunshine Inn, is to be found in the annual report, ending December 31, 1933, which was revealed last night. Nearly 25,000 more meals were supplied indigent men and women during 1933 than in 1932, the report shows. The financial report shows a fine condition.

The Inn, which is operated by the Victoria Welfare Foundation, first opened its doors on January 4, 1932. Since that time it has been opened daily, and has been used by a large number of persons.

MEALS SUPPLIED

The total number of meals supplied to all applicants during the year of 1933, was 113,596 as compared with 78,565 meals provided during the year of 1932.

Records show that there was an increasing number of applications for meals to the end of June, 1933, since when a consistent decrease commenced, which continued until the end of the year covered herein: December of this year, 1933, providing 8,454 meals as against 9,461 in December, 1932, which is a decrease of over 10 per cent.

An interesting estimate shows there have been approximately one million pounds of food and drink prepared and provided since the Sunshine Inn was opened on January 4, 1932. This would amount to 500 tons, or twenty-five 40,000-pound loaded freight cars.

A more systematic form of application became effective on August 1, which provided some information as to occupation, disability, need, etc. This has proved more satisfactory.

SHOW SURPLUS

The annual audit was undertaken and completed by a Victoria chartered accountant, L. A. Grogan, and shows the finances in a very satisfactory condition, with a surplus for the year of $270.39.

Outstanding among the auditor's observations is the decrease of public contributions of food and credit accounts. This is proven by the increase of cash expenditure for food bought for the inn, as compared with the year before. In reference, the auditor says: "Other costs did not increase materially, in spite of the large number of extra meals served; but the extra expense of food incurred by the Inn is notable." He certifies that he is satisfied that the books are accurately kept.

KEEN INTEREST

The service clubs, utilities company, coal merchants, dairies, and a number of private individuals, have been especially kind with their interest and support of Sunshine Inn, while both men and women volunteers have consistently and kindly served the meals daily.

The committee of directors of the Victoria Welfare Foundation have met regularly to review and analyze the management of the Inn, for which the Victoria Welfare Foundation is trustee. The members of the Victoria Welfare Foundation are a body of well-known men, serving without remuneration, the chairman of which is F. E. Winslow, with G. A. A. Hebden as secretary-treasurer.

Dog Now Fully Recovered From Cougar Injuries

"Lady will be on the chase again in a short time," declared Dr. Harry Keown, veterinary surgeon, yesterday, in speaking of the female bloodhound, which some weeks ago, at Shawnigan Lake, suffered a punctured lung, torn shoulder and a lacerated face, as a result of mauling by a large cougar. Dr. Keown informed the dog's owner, James Burdes, that Lady will be able to leave the hospital in a day or two.

Quathie, Lady's mate, who was also hurt in the fight with the big cat, was under medical treatment for some time, but has completely recovered, and is now at home.

"Hysterical, darling—not historical."

Grouse Mountain Chalet Offers Every Comfort

Cheery Warmth Awaits Visitor After Day of Winter Sports

Grouse Mountain Chalet, Mecca of those Winter sport enthusiasts who demand snow-covered hills and long open ski runs for their activities, always presents a haven of warmth and hospitality for its guests who have spent their day in the exhilarating but often chilly atmosphere of the North Vancouver playground.

Heavy snowfalls and windstorms, which occur not infrequently amongst the hills, will not put Chalet guests to any due discomfort this season, however. Mr. Leon Shelley, manager of the Chalet, who is always solicitous of the enjoyment of his patrons, has added to the comforts of the mountain lodge by installing heating apparatus which assures continuous warmth even in the event of other power failures.

A strong supporter of home products, Mr. Shelley has purchased a Canadian Iron Stoker, manufactured in Vancouver and fired with Vancouver Island Coals. The stoker, which is operated by a small electric motor, can always be "hand-fired" should strong winds or heavy falls of snow temporarily disrupt power service.

This Winter playground is becoming increasingly popular and attendance figures to date indicate that this season the number of sports lovers journeying to the upper reaches of Grouse Mountain should break all records. ***

Course for Health to Open Here

In answer to what is believed a vital need of Victoria's business men, the Y.M.C.A. is instituting a personalized health service, commencing Monday at noon, in the association's gymnasium, under the supervision of Archie McKinnon, skilled physicial director.

Working on the assumption that many local business men are paying inadequate attention to their physical recreative needs, a series of special courses have been prepared. Graded and personal exercises will be given Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in accordance with the member's own physician's prescription.

The service commences with a complete physical inventory, and from this foundation is prescribed the activities necessary to preserve health, ward off sickness and effectively treat a number of ailments.

In conjunction with the course, a series of noon-day lectures will be given on the subject "What a Business Man Should Know About His Body."

Membership will also allow participation in the regular men's classes of volleyball, basketball, badminton and swimming.

HUGH B. GILMOUR CALLED TO REST

Former Commissioner of B.C. Workmen's Compensation Board Passes Away at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23 (CP). — Hugh B. Gilmour, seventy-one, active in British Columbia provincial affairs for forty years, and one of the first commissioners of the British Columbia Workmen's Compensation Board and Mothers' Pension Board, died today.

Born at Toronto, Mr. Gilmour was the son of Robert Gilmour, master mechanic for the Grand Trunk Railway, with headquarters in Montreal until 1883, when he went to Winnipeg as master mechanic for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Gilmour attended Ottawa Collegiate Institute, and became an apprenticed mechanical engineer with the Vulcan Iron Works in Ottawa. Later he became connected with the John Abel Engine Works at Woodbridge, Ont., and remained there until 1883, when he went to Calgary as master mechanic with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

LEAVES RAILWAY

He resigned from the railway in 1898 to take the managership of the Vancouver branch of the Waterous Engine Company. He was also president of the Imperial Trust Company during the existence of that firm.

In 1899, Mr. Gilmour was elected to Vancouver City Council and, in 1901, entered provincial politics being elected to the Legislature as member for Vancouver. He remained in the Provincial House for two years.

COLDER WEATHER BEING FORECAST

Deluge of Rain Followed by Windstorm—Clearer Skies Bring Lower Temperatures

Generally fair and colder weather is the forecast for Victoria during the next twenty-four hours, after the city was treated to a stiff gale yesterday which reached a maximum of fifty-two miles an hour.

Prior to the windstorm, the city was deluged with 1.63 inches of rain for the twenty-four hours ending 5 p.m. yesterday. Many basements were flooded, but the waters receded soon after the rain subsided to give way to the wind, which gave Victoria one of the very few sunny days she has enjoyed this year.

The barometer is rising over this province, and fair, colder weather is becoming general, F. Napier Denison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory, reported.

SAYS DOCUMENT IS NOT PROPER

Barrister Takes Exception to Form of Writ—Judge Reserves Decision

Technicalities had their day in the Supreme Court Chambers here, yesterday, when the writ issued by Elena Drummond Hay against the Commonwealth Productions, Limited, was in argument before Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson.

Fred C. Elliott, appearing on behalf of the defendants to the suit, claimed that the writ had not been properly styled in that the full title of His Majesty the King did not appear on the face of the writ. He asked that the writ be denied service on that ground.

Further, Mr. Elliott argued that the writ was defective with respect to the testing of it, which the act required should be by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia. In this instance the name appearing was Aulay Macauley Morrison, Chief Justice." This was incorrect, he said. The chief justice was Hon. J. A. Macdonald, and this constituted a defect a defect that destroyed the efficacy of the writ.

THE KING'S TITLE

With respect to the King's title, Mr. Elliott produced a copy of the writ which bore the title "George V, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, etc." Under the Dominion statutes, the title set out is "George V by the grace of God of Great Britain and Ireland, etc,"

J. B. Clearihue, who appeared for the plaintiffs, investigated the form supplied Mr. Elliott, and found that an old form of writ had been used, but the original writ in the case was in the proper form.

Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson said he would reserve his judgment in order to look into the matter.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

U.S. MONETARY POLICY

Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, President of the United States, with the dictatorial powers with which he is invested, has decreed a plan to obtain complete control of gold in the country. Most of the monetary gold held by private individuals has been called in by the Government. Now the President proposes that the $3,600,000,000 of gold held by the Federal Reserve banks will be taken over by the Government with payment made for it in gold certificates secured dollar for dollar (new value) by gold in the United States Treasury. The purpose of this move is to declare a new gold value for the American dollar.

The American dollar, prior to the suspension of the gold standard, was worth a dollar in gold. The decision is to make it worth not more than sixty cents in gold. The gold value is to be cut by forty per cent. That means that the gold in possession of the Government increases in dollar value. The Government will probably make a profit, in relation to internal currency, of some billions of dollars in taking over the gold reserve. Mr. Roosevelt proposes to use this profit as an exchange equalization fund. A sum of $2,000,000,000 will be employed for the purpose of buying and selling gold at home and abroad. It can also be utilized for dealing in foreign exchange. By this means it is hoped to stabilize exchange rates.

The goal at which Mr. Roosevelt is aiming is to bring back the purchasing power of the dollar to the level at which the average debts of the country were incurred. He wants, as well, to give the dollar "a fairly constant standard of purchasing power." The Ottawa Journal says that the sum and substance of Mr. Roosevelt's whole idea is "to increase the dollar value of commodities to increase prices, and, of course, wages. His theory, or the theory of his money advisers, is that commodity prices, over a period, are related to gold prices, and if one increases the other must. Mr. Roosevelt's trouble will come if wages fail to rise with prices. In other words, if workers are paid with the same number of dollars as before, and these dollars have less purchasing power than before, what then? The history of nearly all inflationary movements has shown that wages don't rise—that, at best, they go up much slower than prices go up. It may be, of course, that this time it will be different; or that Mr. Roosevelt will take steps to make it different. We shall see."

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN GERMANY

The status of religious liberty in Germany is still undetermined, but events are rapidly conspiring to decide whether or not the Reich Government under Chancellor Hitler will permit the churches to manage their internal affairs. At the moment there is a conflict between the Reichsbishop, Dr. Ludwig Muller, and the League of Dissenting Clergy as to the personnel of the executive body of the national church organization, which is expected to settle one way or another the question of spiritual freedom. Six thousand ministers, or more than one-third of the total Protestant clergy, belong to the protesting body and are led by Rev. Martin Niemoeller. How critical is the situation is shown in the renewed report that Karl Barth, the outstanding theologian of present-day Protestantism, who has been most outspoken against State domination of spiritual affairs, has been removed from his post as professor of biology at the University of Bonn.

The background of the conflict lies in the Nazist principle of the totalitarian state under which religion and the church should contribute to the nationalistic purpose and conform to state regulations. By a concordat between the Reich Government and the Vatican, Roman Catholic clergy were excluded from politics and the Catholic political party was disbanded. This church gained on the other hand the advantage of teaching religion in the schools and of retaining its own youth movement. All the evangelical churches, a dozen in number, were united into one national church on April 25, of last year, an event held by some to be the most important in Germany's religious life since the Reformation.

The constitution and administration of this united church has been, and continues to be, the battlefield between opposing parties within the church. The dogma of Aryan purity of Germanic stock, which Nazists contend is essential to Germanic development, resulted in the famous non-Aryan paragraph being placed in the church constitution. No Jew nor anyone of Jewish affiliations could hold office in the church. Then, too, some of the leaders of the German Christians, that is the Nazists within the church, would abolish the Old Testament as being of Semitic origin and substitute Germanic myths. Instead of Moses there would be Thor, and Teutonic sagas would displace the stories of Joseph and David and Daniel. So vehement was the criticism evoked that the non-Aryan paragraph was expunged from the constitution and the ultra-Aryan proponents were dismissed from office. Meanwhile two thousand pastors, a number which has been trebled latterly, pledged themselves to suffer, if necessary, for the liberty of the church to manage its own affairs.

The reaction to the protest of the evangelicals was that Herr Hitler said that the State would not intervene in the disputes of the Church, the German or Nazist Christians were removed from the executive council and the Reichsbishop, Dr. Muller, dissociated himself from the German Christian movement. Within the last month the situation has become more acute. Berlin has given Dr. Muller dictatorial powers in the settlement of church disputes and ordered him to restore the obnoxious non-Aryan paragraph. The fight is now on between the Reichsbishop and the determined evangelical section of the church. Its members have taken the matter into their pulpits, basing their opposition upon the Augsburg Congression and the general foundational constitution of the church of the Reformation. "We must also remind the Reichsbishop," they aver, "of the words, 'man ought to obey God rather than man.'"

What the outcome will be is not clear. The dissenting group, along with the other sections of the church, are followers of Hitler and accept the general Nazist programme as the only possible escape from Communism; nor are they averse to the idea of a national church. They stand, however, for the traditional freedom guaranteed to them at the Reformation and against such misinterpretation of Christianity as they hold is involved in the Semitic exclusion. The determination of the dissenting six thousand has been likened to that of the two thousand ministers in England who in 1662 gave up pulpit, parsonage and emoluments for conscience sake. Whether Germany's leader will risk the opposition of so large a body of loyal followers in the interests of 100 per cent Nazism remains to be seen.

DEFENCE OF AUSTRALIA

From the standpoint of Empire defence there is probably a good deal of significance in the conference of British, Australian and New Zealand naval commanders now in progress at Singapore. Premier Lyons of Australia, the most concerned of all the Dominions in the matter of national security, recently outlined proposals for the initiation of a new policy. There is recognition in Australia of the inadequacy of the present defence forces. There is an increase in the vote for defensive purposes of £1,462,000, of which £438,000 will be spent on seaplanes, and land aircraft. A war sloop, costing £280,000, is to be constructed in Australia. The Melbourne correspondent of The London Times says that the financial situation governs all measures for defence. "Nevertheless," he says, "it is gambling with fate to assert the right of Australians to the continued occupation of a great country sparsely populated and with the stipulation that white people only shall come to it without linking up such a policy with adequate defence."

It may be an immoral practice but it is a high tribute to British goods that other countries should endeavor to produce them under the nomenclature by which they have become world renowned. "Scottish tweeds," made in Japan, are now being offered for sale in London. At the same time Japan is buying the highest quality tweeds from Scotland. China is sending to the United States "Irish linen" made in China. It is significant that the growth of the hand embroidery industry in China in recent years is, on account of the low wages paid to workers, almost ruining the export trade in such goods from Ireland and Switzerland.

Whatever truth there may be in the various reports of "sea serpents" visible in some quarters of the globe, there is no doubt that at one time in earth's history monsters of some sort now unknown inhabited the depths of the ocean. An Aberdeen trawler has brought up from the sea-bed two large tusks of strange appearance. They have been declared by the Regius Professor of Natural History at Aberdeen University to be relics of the Mammoth or Shaggy Elephant, which was in existence in Europe during the Great Ice Age, but extinct for about 50,000 years. Each of the tusks is four and a half feet in length.

GENESIS AND EVOLUTION

Genesis may be nothing more than an inspired poem, but it is intriguing to discover that we can find far more support for genesis in the geological record than for the theories of the evolutionists. The geological record suggests that the simplest forms of life were the first to appear. So does Genesis. The geological record suggests that new types appeared suddenly, as if specially created. So does Genesis. The geological record does not suggest a pedigree stretching from the simplest cell to man, for in this case we should find a series of intermediate links between the different types. We find no such missing links. New forms of life appear suddenly. The first shells appear suddenly. The rocks record no experiments in shell-making. There are no links between fishes and amphibians, oviparous and placental mammals, and no true links between reptiles and birds.—Arnold Lunn, in The English Review.

If thou hast fear of those who command thee, spare those who obey thee.—Rabbi Ben Azai.

Note and Comment
By R. B. D.

Wherever God erects a house of prayer,
The devil always builds a chapel there;
And 'twill be found upon examination
The latter has the largest congregation.
—Defoe.

It may be true that the most interesting study of mankind is man. It undoubtedly is true that the most perplexing study of man is woman. For no mere man is competent to explain the psychology of woman. Any mere man who essays a study of the superior complex of any woman is confronted by the barrier of sex, and speedily discovers the degree of his incompetence. Probably the greatest compliment ever paid to womankind may be found in the historical drama of Antony and Cleopatra; but that compliment was paid by a man who suffered under the handicap of being a poet. "Age cannot wither nor custom stale the infinite variety of her charms." Then the divine Cleo had the advantage of being a widow, whether through the agency of death or through the intervention of the courts of her day does not matter.

* * *

In our conventional day the relations between Royal Antony and divine Cleopatra would be considered a trifle irregular. If there had been such things as rackets in the days of the charming Egyptian, the celebrated lady might have been charged with being a racketeer. We suppose there can be no comparison drawn between the eccentric career of the Queen of Egypt and that of the remarkable career of the gifted Canadian, Aimee Semple, formerly McPherson, lately Hutton. The scoffer may point at the versatile Aimee with the finger of scorn and say that she has made it her business to exploit religion for private profit; but we are not going to take a seat among the other scornful commentators of the press and say anything like that. On the contrary, we believe that when as Mrs. McPherson Aimee "got religion," she was quite sincere and believed she had received a divine call to save the souls of men from that terrible condition known as perdition. We say the souls of men, for there is no doubt at all that the appeals of Aimee as an evangelist made a greater appeal to men than to women.

* * *

Still, whatever her divine attributes, there was a part of Aimee which was human and practical. When she found that her field for cultivation in Canada was limited, she looked across the border and saw there vast areas ripe and ready for the harvest. Down in Southern California there appeared to be multitudes of unregenerates who had never experienced the blessing and the joy of true religion. Aimee set up a tabernacle in that undeveloped wilderness and by her exhortations attracted such a great multitude that the tabernacle became a temple which soon became one of the greatest attractions not only of that part of the world, but whose fame extended to all the religious centres of the world. Thousands of converts have given voluntary testimony to the good accomplished by the ministrations of the chief ecclesiastical figure in the Temple. These things must be credited to the central lighthouse of the Foursquare Gospel.

* * *

But for some reason the brilliant light of the Temple has become obscured by intrigues, dissensions, and probably scandals. There developed matrimonial, social and religious complications. The environment of Hollywood does not seem to have been favorable to the religious life of the Temple. Between Ma Kennedy and Daughter Aimee there were as many divorces almost as in the neighboring screen colony. Opposing forces fought for control of the temporalities of the Temple, and the founder of the institution seems to have been driven out of the gates of the house built for worship. At any rate, Aimee has collected all her trappings and properties and has gone on tour in company with a professional atheist. The company has played to small and apathetic audiences in Seattle and Vancouver, and may be in Victoria in course of time, where the people, if they are interested, may hear Aimee demonstrate that there is a God and her new disciple proving that any kind of Deity cannot exist except in the imagination of duped and credulous people.

* * *

Thus we are beholding the decline and fall of one of the most interesting and captivating women since the days of the Egyptian Hussy, as someone has described her. A career which began in sincerity has passed through various intermediate stages and is ending in what has all the characteristics of a racket. Many kinds of sports, as everybody knows, have become rackets. This appears to be an age of rackets. We have suffered from political rackets, financial rackets, economic rackets, but from too many religious rackets may the good Lord deliver us.

* * *

Barnum justified his special rackets by declaring that the people liked to be humbugged. There is no form of humbug which seems to be so easy to "put over" as religious humbug. It is as old as mankind, beginning with the medicine man of savage tribes. It was always a simple and profitable form of human exploitation, and it was never more profitable than in our own allegedly enlightened times. We sometimes wonder whether that form of charlatanism has about reached its alloted span.

Dear R.B.D.,—I wonder if you or some kind reader could help me trace some few lines, dealing, I believe, with the convict settlement in Australia (Botany Bay). The only clue I have is this line:

"No private views disgraced our generous zeal."

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 19.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT
By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE ONE AFTER ANOTHER SQUEEZE

In the play of the hand I am sure that more players get a great degree of satisfaction out of the development of squeezes and forced lead plays than from any other standard form of brilliant Dummy play at the Bridge table. This is natural enough because both of these plays are based primarily upon accurate reading of the opposing distribution: the player must know, in the case of a squeeze, just how the power of the combined hands is to be utilized so as to force the defence to crumble and permit the fulfillment of what appears at first flush to be an unmakable contract.

The hand below was submitted to me by Ralph Moulton, of Ambridge, Pa., who states that it was played in a four-table Howell game. At three of the tables the bidding stopped at six no trump. At the fourth table, however, the contract of seven no trump was reached, which was made by means of a double squeeze.

South, dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

North: ♠ 10 9 5 4; ♡ 10 9 7 6; ◇ J 2; ♣ 8 6 3
West: ♠ K J 6; ♡ A J 2; ◇ A Q 5; ♣ K J 4 2
East: ♠ A 8 7 2; ♡ Q 3; ◇ K 9 8 3; ♣ A Q 7
South: ♠ Q 3; ♡ K 8 5 4; ◇ 10 7 6 4; ♣ 10 9 5

The actual bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1NT	Pass	3NT
Pass	7NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

I, myself, would have preferred an opening bid of one club to the bid of one no trump made by West. However, the East and West pair were basing their no trump bids on the high honor trick requirements of the Culbertson system, and thus East, after the opening bid, felt sure of a game and thought there was some prospect of a slam. His direct raise to three no trump is certainly fully justified. The subsequent bidding was perhaps slightly unusual.

North's opening lead was the heart six. The three was played from dummy and South played the eight, the declarer winning the trick with the knave. Three rounds of clubs then followed, as well as three rounds of diamonds, the last diamond being taken with the king in dummy. On the seventh trick North discarded a heart, and the declarer now knew that his hand had contained originally eight cards in hearts and spades. Inasmuch as the opening lead was the heart six and his discard was the heart seven, it seemed reasonably certain that he had held four spades and four hearts in addition to his holding in the minor suits.

At this point the declarer led a small spade from dummy and finessed the knave, possibly a dangerous play, but apparently essential. The spade king was then laid down for the ninth trick, and with the lead still in the declarer's hand, the situation was as follows:

North: ♠ 10 9; ♡ 10 9; ◇ —; ♣ —
West: ♠ 6; ♡ A 2; ◇ —; ♣ J
East: ♠ A 8; ♡ Q; ◇ 9; ♣ —
South: ♠ —; ♡ K 8 5; ◇ 10; ♣ —

The next lead was the knave of clubs, which squeezed North, who was forced to discard a heart. The spade eight was now discarded from dummy, and South, forced to retain the diamond ten, also surrendered a heart. The spade six was now led to dummy's ace, North followed suit, and South was again forced to part with a heart, as otherwise the diamond nine would be a trick winner. The last two tricks were won by the declarer with the ace and two of hearts.

MUNICIPALITIES ARE CAUTIONED

Must Not Expect Additional Handouts From Province This Year

British Columbia municipalities now working on their 1934 budgets would be well advised not to contemplate much help from the Provincial Government, either through restoration of their grants, or from other avenues, Acting Premier A. W. Gray intimated yesterday at the Legislative Buildings.

The statement is being generally interpreted as a warning that the Government cannot accede to the request of the municipalities, which recently asked the ministry for restoration of grants and other relief amounting to approximately $3,000,000 per annum.

NOT FINAL ANSWER

Mr. Gray qualified his remarks to the extent that final action must await the return of the full Cabinet, and word of what will be the outcome of Federal arrangements in policies affecting British Columbia this year.

A "new deal" for the municipalities, with resumption of grants and reassumption of social service costs were pre-election pledges of the ministry. Since then, however, the new Government has had time to discover that the municipalities have been spending $31,000,000 a year, to the Province's curtailed budget of around $23,000,000, based on British Columbia revenues of $20,000,000.

BIBLE IN SCHOOLS

Sir,—Thank you for your splendid leader in Sunday's paper. Victoria is to be congratulated on having a daily paper whose editor is not ashamed to publish such sentiments.

Isn't it time we realized that not only is it desirable that the Bible should be taught in our schools, but that unless we do get back to Bible teachings in school, business, politics, home and, in fact, every phase of life, we can never hope to get out of the present mess, which is chiefly caused by the non-practice of the Golden Rule; and how can we ever hope to learn that rule unless it is taught us during our most impressionable years. If parents neglect the duty of teaching their children Bible truths, then it is up to the state, for its own future's sake, to teach them at least the fundamental outlines of them.

OMNIPOTENCE

Sir,—We read the other day an extract from Orton's "Zoology" on the subject of spiders and we realize as never before the greatness of the Creator. The human mind has no conception of the magnitude of God and His creation, and we talk quite as easily, but without any real understanding, of planets being at a distance of trillions of miles as of an atom measuring a trillionth part of an inch.

As for Orton's spider, it has at the rear end of its body two or three pairs of spinnerets, having the appearance of legs. These spinnerets reel out the silk from the silk glands, their tip being perforated by a myriad of little tubes through which the silk escapes in extremely fine threads. One of these threads, just visible to the naked eye, is composed of a thousand or more of these primary threads, which have been drawn out and united by the hind legs.

The co-ordination of these special organs is simply marvelous. First, the silk-glands, capable of secreting a fluid which has the remarkable property of hardening upon exposure to the air; second, spinnerets, having each more than a thousand perforations of microscopic size without which the silk-glands would be worse than useless; third, hind legs, having a wonderful function of forming the thousands of invisible filaments into a thread, without which function both glands and spinnerets would be a serious detriment to their possessor.

It is simply impossible that these three organs should have developed gradually and independently of each other to the stage of perfection, in advance of which stage they could not co-operate in the slightest degree to the one end for which they all exist.

It is absolutely necessary to success to have the area of at least a thousand apertures to obtain the instant solidification of the liquid material through exposure to the air; fewer than these could not possibly produce the desired result.

Who knew, or could have known, the need of such a number of orifices, and who could have formed them in a tube the size of a spider's leg? How could several legs intended for locomotion have evolved into organs so radically different in function? All of those thousands of orifices are as so many witnesses that evolution is a huge delusion, which has made foolish the wisdom of the wise and has exposed to deserved ridicule the gullibility of the brightest minds. The human mind simply refuses to take the position that such a complicated mechanism as, for instance, the spider's spinneret is the result of blind chance.

In conclusion we might add that if a personal God has worked out such marvelous things in a spider, which today is and tomorrow is gone, can anyone doubt His matchless love and grace wherewith He has provided, at an infinite cost, for the salvation of man's eternal soul in and through the resurrection of His Son the Lord Jesus Christ, whose sacrifice did "bring a rebel sinner, even me, nigh unto God!"

"It passeth knowledge, that dear love of Thine,
Lord Jesus, Saviour, yet this soul of mine
Would of Thy love, in all its breadth and length,
Its height and depth, its everlasting strength,

REINCARNATION

Sir,—The words of Mr. Alfred Fleischer in his letter, published in your columns yesterday, entitled "Reincarnation," that "truth cannot forever be repressed, and this teaching (reincarnation), as it rightly deserves, is again coming into its own," are indeed well put. And though the ecclesiastics are disinclined to say yea or nay to this belief, from the preachings and writings of many of those gentlemen, it would seem that such beliefs are ever present in their minds; though, perhaps, not disclosed in their ministrations of the Word.

It has perhaps been better for the people of the Western world that it was not included in the middle-age teachings of Christianity. For had such been the case, it is not without reason to believe that it would, among the uneducated masses of past centuries, have been the source of perverting this truth on the one hand, and moral slackness on the other—as it is today among the peoples of other parts of the world (not that the morality extant in this Western world is anything to boast about!) who evidently hold very distorted beliefs of the reincarnation of the soul.

For persons to assert—be they ministers of the Gospel or men in the street—that belief in reincarnation as a part of our faith is Buddhism, not Christianity, is but ignorance of the facts involved. For, as Mr. Fleischer remarks in his letter, references to the general belief of the Eastern world in reincarnation is very evident throughout the Scriptures; especially in the teachings of Jesus and His Apostles, and particularly St. Paul.

It would seem, after nearly two thousand years of the Christian era having elapsed, and there being no more evidence of a Kingdom of God on earth today than there was in the years B.C. (for realms of God cannot altogether be bought with the shekels of social blessings), that it is a case of purely individual unfoldment, which reincarnation alone can give. Without such a means, attaining likeness with Him would appear to be impossible. For under prevalent theories of the meaning of Christ's work for mankind nineteen hundred years ago, we start nowhere and accomplish nothing—no hope whatsoever for further advancement unto Christ-likeness. Reincarnation only can give man the opportunity for attaining at-one-ment, by "working out our own salvation." As Mr. Masefield, the Poet Laureate, so aptly words it:

So shall I fight, so shall I tread,
In this long war beneath the stars;
So shall a glory wreathe my head,
So shall I faint and show the scars,
Until this case, this clogging mould,

DOGS ON ROCKLAND AVENUE

Sir,—There are two savage police dogs running at large in the vicinity of central Rockland Avenue. A few days ago they killed a small dog just south of Rockland Avenue, practically tearing the poor beast to pieces. Yesterday, they attacked a small Aberdeen terrier, belonging to a neighbor of mine, and seriously mangled it, and had it not been for the intervention of another neighbor, they would, without doubt, have killed the dog.

Some time ago these two savage brutes followed my small Aberdeen on to my property, but were driven off before they were able to attack it.

It is disgraceful that savage brutes of this kind should be allowed to roam about unattended and become a menace to all the small household dogs of that neighborhood as well as to children, and possibly to grown persons.

I am not aware of the name of the owner of these dogs, but I am taking advantage of the kindness of space in your paper to notify him that if these dogs appear on my property, I will have no compunction in shooting both.

CITIZENS' RECREATION ROOMS

Sir,—May we, through the columns of your paper, express our appreciation to the many people who assisted us in making such an outstanding success of the benefit concert we planned to aid the funds of the Citizens' Recreation Rooms in the Shrine Hall last Friday.

The artists, who presented a wonderful programme, all gave their services; the advertisers and sponsors on the programme, who had guaranteed expenses before we commenced to sell tickets; the two daily papers, who backed us with such generous publicity; ticket sellers and others too numerous to detail, who gave of time and talent freely.

The result is a generous donation to the funds to turn over to the treasurer—profits from programmes over expenses, $9.56; total from ticket sales, $112.80; total net gain for funds, $121.36.

VIEWPOINTS ON WORLD PEACE

Sir,—With reference to the leader, "Viewpoints on World Peace," appearing in last Saturday's Colonist, you there suggested that Great Britain's best contribution to world peace would be the keeping of a big navy.

In answer to this I would simply point out that in the Spring of 1914, Great Britain had the strongest navy she has ever had; a navy equal in strength to any other two navies in the world at that time. Did this keep peace among the nations? Did this prevent the greatest war in history?

Again, the money which Britain is saving on her navy, she is spending on social services and slum clearance. By urging her to spend more on her navy you are urging her to give up slum clearance and cut down on health insurance, old-age pensions, and the like beneficent activities.

Then the peace propagandists do not ask Britain alone to disarm. They first offer security by a new way, a way which at least has not failed, as armaments have, for it has never yet been properly tried. Then they urge, not Britain alone, but all nations to disarm in equal proportions.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of January 24, 1884)

Fraser River Drownings—A dispatch from New Westminster, of Sunday, states that a canoe containing four men, in attempting to cross the Fraser River on Saturday night, at Langley, was struck by ice floes and capsized. Alex Murray and another man named Allard were drowned. The other two were saved. Allard was the son of the late Ovid Allard, who, twenty-five years ago, was a chief factor for the Hudson's Bay Company and was stationed at Yale.

Municipal Affairs—Yesterday morning, His Worship J. W. Carey, recently elected Mayor of Victoria, and Councillors Wriglesworth, Vinalius, Porter, Gowen, W. A. Robertson, J. Robertson, Boyd, McKillican and McCulloch, proceeded to the Supreme Court and were sworn into office by Sir M. B. Begbie, Chief Justice. Justices McCreight, Crease, Gray and Walkem were also present. The Chief Justice, in restoring the civic seal to the Mayor, expressed the hope that it had lost none of its virtues during the short time it was in his possession.

Ottawa Dispatch—The following story was received by The Colonist, last night, from Ottawa: "Orders have been given by the Postmaster-General for an increased number of letter boxes for the Victoria postoffice. These will be erected immediately. Two wickets, one for ladies, will be opened. The staff of the Victoria department will be increased and every facility offered the public." This missive was signed by E. C. Baker and N. Shakespeare.

TENSE DRAMA IS NOW AT CAPITOL

"House on 56th Street" Co-Stars Kay Francis and Gene Raymond as New Screen Lovers

Two of the most contrasting types of screen players are to be seen as a new team of lovers in the Warner Bros. picture, "The House on 56th Street," opening at the Capitol Theatre today. They are Kay Francis and Gene Raymond, who play together for the first time.

Raymond, on the other hand, is one of the few outright blond masculine screen players with flaxen hair and blue eyes.

The picture is a stirring drama based on the novel by Joseph Santley. It deals with the affairs in the life of a beautiful chorus girl whose career leads her from the theatre to a mansion on 56th Street, to prison and back to the mansion after it has changed into a fashionable speakeasy and gambling club.

DOMINION THEATRE — Director Robert Z. Leonard decided that nobody could play the part of a Broadway columnist as well as a Broadway columnist could. Therefore Robert Benchley, famous White Way news commentator, laid aside his typewriter and donned makeup for the role of Ward King in "Dancing Lady," the new musical romance co-starring Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, currently playing at the Dominion Theatre.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE — Roger Imhof, noted vaudeville actor who has just signed a long term contract with Fox Film, is going to take precautions to insure against being "typed" as an Irish character man. Imhof is making his screen debut in the important role of "Micky" in "Paddy the Next Best Thing," now at the Playhouse Theatre, with Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in the stellar roles.

COLUMBIA TO OFFER GREAT SEA THRILLER

In order to film the exciting aerial scenes which feature Universal's Arctic drama, "S.O.S. Iceberg," heading the bill of the Columbia Theatre, Universal broke a ban placed by the Danish Government upon airplanes landing in Greenland. The Danish Government relented, however, and allowed Udet, the great German flyer, to bring in his three Junkers monoplanes to film the air scenes of the picture.

"MY WIFE'S MOTHER" AT EMPIRE ON FRIDAY

A part of Elstree Studios which is always of great interest to visitors is the "village," which stands in the open ground behind the main studio, known as the lot. Here whole streets of houses and cottages of varied nationalities and styles of architecture stand as reminders of past productions or are new structures for current films.

A new edifice has been added for Thomas Bentley's film, "My Wife's Mother," and this is an "ideal home," with a landscape garden tastefully laid out before it and surrounded by a neat fence, the gate of which has "The Love Nest" painted on it. This beautifully built and designed residence has put the Bloomsbury and Bulgarian mansions on the "lot" quite in the shade, and plays a prominent part in the film which will show at the Empire Theatre Friday.

"TAM O' SHANTER" TO PLAY HERE SHORTLY

Of considerable interest to a large number of citizens is the welcome announcement of the return, on their way home, of the Scottish Musical Comedy Company, which is to appear at the Empire Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a matinee Saturday, next week in an entirely new production, entitled "Tam o' Shanter," a two-act fantasy based upon the poems and letters of Robert Burns, arranged by John E. Daniels, of Glasgow.

All of the songs sung are from Robert Burns. Perhaps the most outstanding achievement of this gifted group of Scottish players and singers is their perfect ensemble, which has thrilled audiences throughout the Dominion of Canada as well as the United States.

OPERA SELECTIONS TO BE HEARD IN RECITAL

On Wednesday next, January 31, at the Shrine Auditorium, a male voice choir, known as the Meistersingers, of eighteen voices, will give their inaugural recital.

In addition to a number of part songs, there will be presented excerpts from the operas, including the Miserere scene from "Il Trovatore," in which Mrs. T. H. Johns, well-known soprano, sings the part of Leonora, and J. Walsh, tenor, that of the Troubadour. From the tuneful opera, "Robin Hood," amongst other items, the ever popular song, "Brown October Ale," will be heard, Pierre Timp, baritone, taking this solo.

VANCOUVER SYMPHONY HERE ON FEBRUARY 5

The Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Allard de Ridder, will play on Monday, February 5, at the Royal Theatre. This fine body of musicians has gained much since last playing in Victoria. As the press states, perhaps this is because the orchestra enjoys the inestimable privilege of having Mr. de Ridder resident in Vancouver and consequently in closer touch with the instrumentalists who perform under his baton.

A very fine programme has been prepared for the concert here. This programme is the one to be played on Sunday, February 4, in Vancouver and every seat in the house has been sold. It is the ambition of the committee to have a full house greet this splendid organization when it plays in Victoria

FEAR TRADER WAS DROWNED

Capsized Skiff From Troller Restless Found Washed Up on Island Beach

Finding of an upturned punt 100 yards away from where the Canadian fishing vessel Restless lies anchored in Nasparti Inlet, led yesterday to the belief that Emil Kolman, forty-three-year-old owner of the craft, had met death by drowning. Search for the body was instituted by the Provincial Police at the spot, under Corporal Dunbar, of the police launch P.M.L.-7.

The punt, a seven-foot skiff with flat bottom and ends, was discovered washed up on the beach 300 feet from where the Restless lay anchored. Unnoticed before, the capsized skiff pointed to the probability that Kolman met death by misadventure while rowing ashore in the small boat from the larger craft during one of the recent storms.

While not yet accepted as final, this theory, the police believe, would account for the condition of the Restless, found with stale stores in her locker and hunting arms placed in readiness on her decks. It discounted, to some extent, theories of foul play advanced by friends of the man at New Westminster and Malcolm Island, respectively.

RELATIVES IN FINLAND

So far as can be ascertained at the moment, Kolman is believed to have a mother and a sister living in Finland, and also a married sister at Toronto. The names and addresses of the relatives have not been definitely ascertained.

The disappearance of Kolman, who was a well-known trader among fishing fleets of the West Coast of Vancouver Island, led to the organization of a widespread search by the police, with three patrol boats taking part in the investigation at various points on the coast. Of these, the P.M.L.-7 ran into stiff seas on Monday, en route to Nasparti Inlet from Kyuquot, and received a buffeting.

The finding of the punt has localized the search, with present efforts directed to dragging at the scene.

GARDEN FREE TO RELIEF WORKERS

Arrangements Made Whereby Unemployed May Have Shower and Swim Free at Crystal Pool

Through the efforts of Captain George Willis and the generosity of A. H. Cowlishaw, manager of the Crystal Garden, families on the city relief list will be allowed use of the swimming pool in the garden on weekdays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays being excepted.

Tickets will be supplied free of cost at the relief office, and may be obtained weekly with the relief order for any member of the family concerned. The tickets are now at the city office, awaiting distribution.

Free lessons will be given in swimming and life saving. Boys' classes will be conducted by Captain Willis on Fridays, between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m., while instruction to girls will be given on Tuesday afternoons at the same time.

The management of the Garden will not supply suits, towels or soap. Captain Willis has issued an appeal to Victoria citizens, generally, asking that any who have bathing suits not required to leave them at the Crystal Garden office. He also asks that any good swimmers who wish to assist in teaching the children to swim, leave their names at the swimming pool office.

Youth Movement Grows in Canada

The annual meeting of the Religious Education Council of British Columbia was held recently in Vancouver in Chalmers United Church. The Victoria Council of Religious Education was represented by Mrs. M. Wilkinson, Mrs. M. Hammond, Miss Lynn and Rev. J. H. A. Warr.

Reports were received from the children's board, boys' and girls' work boards and from the young peoples' board. Each department recorded advances over last year.

VACATION SCHOOL

The vacation school work had extended so much that this year its direction had to be placed under the general council instead of under the children's board as formerly. In the boys' work it was shown that today there is a larger number of boys organized in Tuxis and Trail Ranger work than at any time since the work began, the total number being 2,900. The girls' work showed an increase of seventy-two C.G.I.T. groups over last year, making the total to date of 402 groups under the girls' board.

In commenting on the improvement in young people's work, Mr. McLean told the meeting that there were in Canada more than 150,000 young people organized in the churches of Canada today and that these, along with the boys and girls in the organized Sunday school classes, made one of the largest youth movements in the Dominion, and placed within the hands of the churches a great power for good.

TEMPERANCE TEACHING

Mrs. R. C. Wilson, in reporting for the temperance education committee, said that a great advance had been made this past year in that it is now possible for temperance education to be given in the University.

The new officers elected included: President, R. Spears; vice-president, P. A. Anderson; secretary, O. Lundell; treasurer, L. Wagner; chairman of finance committee, F. Rolston.

Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing gave an inspiring and challenging closing address. The great emphasis for the new year will be on the work of the Sunday sessions.

Colonist Screen News Shows Many Unusual Scenes

THE immediate and far-reaching effects of President Roosevelt's plan to devaluate America's currency, as outlined in his historic message to Congress, are to be seen in the latest issue of The Colonist Universal Newsreel, which features Graham McNamee as its talking reporter.

Even while the entire world is discussing the latest effort of the President to solve the depression's problems, markets throughout the United States immediately react by rising briskly with speculative enthusiasm.

The newsreel, now being shown at the Capitol Theatre, also includes scenes in Aurora, Ill., where three firemen die when they are trapped under a falling wall during a fire that caused $300,000 damage; views of America's leading flyers, led by a squadron of United States bombers, performing breath-taking stunts at the all-American air races in Miami, Fla., and views in Washington, as Edsel Ford, son of the famous automobile manufacturer, tells of his father's gigantic stock deals with Detroit banks.

WILL INCREASE HOSPITAL UNITS

New Wing at Essondale to Be Opened This Spring by Necessity

Acting Premier A. W. Gray announced yesterday that the Government would open the closed wing at the Essondale Mental Hospital on April 1, to increase accommodation now overtaxed at the institution. The wing was completed in 1929-30 at a cost of approximately $600,000. Its operation will add $43,000 yearly to the cost of provincial services under the Provincial Secretary's Department.

The wing, which was built originally as a separate institution for war veterans, will accomodate 150 additional patients. It will be operated as part of the general accommodation of Essondale, and while not reserved for veterans, any patients with war service will be placed there while at the institution. There are sufficient patients already on hand in Essondale to about fill the new wing, it is said.

Mental institutions in recent years have proved an exceedingly heavy drain on the provincial exchequer, the gross cost of the service under various headings approximating $800,000 a year. The number of patients under treatment at the different mental hospitals operated by the Province has been increasing steadily for several years, official reports indicate.

NEWFOUNDLAND BOARD NAMED

Commission of Six Chosen to Administer Affairs of Reverted Colony

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 22 (CP).—Governor Sir David Murray Anderson today officially confirmed the announcement from London, Sunday night, of the personnel of Newfoundland's new Government.

Sir David is a member of the commission, which includes three Newfoundland representatives: Premier F. C. Alderdice, Secretary of State J. C. Puddester and W. R. Howley, K.C.

Great Britain's representatives are Sir John Hope Simpson, T. Lodge and E. N. R. Trentham.

SENTENCES REDUCED BY COURT HERE

Term of S. Baker Counterfeiter, Cut From Ten to Five Years

JOHN HYSLOP'S APPEAL GRANTED BY TRIBUNAL

The Court of Appeal yesterday, as a result of the review of the proceedings in the criminal courts below, reduced the sentence of ten years, which had been imposed upon Stanley Baker for being implicated in counterfeiting operations, to five years. John Hyslop, who was sentenced to two years for robbery of a store at Burnaby with violence, had an additional two years term cut off, which had been imposed owing to the accused having had a revolver in his possession.

This latter sentence had been imposed in connection with the new amendment to the code, but it was found by the Court of Appeal that the trial judge had erred, inasmuch as the carrying of the gun was prior to the enactment of the new law, although the trial took place following the enactment.

"Buddy" White, who is out on bail, had on Monday night retained Stuart Henderson in his appeal, and in order to allow further investigation into the case by counsel, it was adjourned for a week. The accused was sentenced to fifteen months in jail for wounding Alfred Alexander in a dispute at the Vancouver races.

OTHERS DISMISSED

All the other appeals were dismissed yesterday forenoon by the court.

Edward Waye, who was tried with Stanley Baker for counterfeiting money, and who was sentenced at Vernon by Chief Justice Morrison to four years, gave his age as thirty years. He represented that the finding of the counterfeit money in the shack occupied by him was a mistake. It was found under the floor in an adjoining building. Questioned by members of the court, the convicted man said he could not account for its presence except that someone else had concealed it there. He objected also that when given the opportunity of election, he was only allowed a choice on one count, while he was tried by the jury on three counts.

The court could find no reason for interfering with the decision of the jury which had convicted him.

In the case of Baker, the companion convicted, the complaint was made that he had not been given full opportunity to call necessary witnesses.

To Mr. Justice McPhillips, who sought an explanation for the presence of counterfeit coins about the shack, the prisoner could only offer the explanation that someone else had placed them there.

DID QUESTIONING

In answer to Mr. Justice McQuarrie's question as to why he received so much longer sentence than his comrade, Baker said the only reason he could think of was that he (Baker) did all the questioning.

The court felt that the disparity of sentence was not explainable, in view of the fact that there were no previous convictions of either of the men, and so reduced the sentence of Baker to five years.

Baker, like Waye, gave England as his birthplace. The former said that he had been a teacher.

In the case of John Hyslop, convicted by Mr. Justice Murphy of robbery of a store with violence, and sentenced to two years, with an additional two years for having, contrary to the recent amendment to the code, had a revolver in his possession, the convicted man urged his appeal altogether on the latter sentence.

The report of the trial judge, in this respect, was that he considered he had no option under the recent decision of the Court of Appeal but to impose this. He had not seen the decision, but had been informed as to its application, said the report.

MISCONSTRUED RULING

The court felt that the trial judge had not been correct with regard to the ruling of the Court of Appeal. While the trial of Hyslop came up after the passing of the amendment to the code respecting carrying weapons, the offence committed was before the coming into effect of the amendment. They, therefore, ruled against the additional two years' sentence.

Ellis Andy, a Finlander engaged in mining some claims near Hope, had to have the use of an interpreter in his appeal from the sentence of Judge Howay, in New Westminster. He had been charged with assault, causing actual bodily harm. He had taken speedy trial before the court.

The offence consisted in the biting of the forefinger of another man named Jones, in the course of a "scrap" in a beer parlor, which resulted in the losing of the first joint of the finger. He had been given two years and six months in jail. His contention was that the other man had knocked two of his teeth out.

Mr. Justice McPhillips pointed out that the injuries to Jones were such as to mutilate him for life.

DECLARES ITS INDEPENDENCE

Province on Western Border of China Establishes New Government

MOSCOW, Jan. 23 (AP).—Eastern Singiank Province, on the remote Western borders of China, had declared its independence and established a new Government at Kashgar, said reports reaching here, today, via the Tass (Russian) News Agency.

The new Government, ruling over nomadic tribesmen and farmer folk in one of the most isolated regions of Central Asia, was reported to be supported by Hotan Emir, whose domain lies close to the border of India.

SEEKING RECOGNITION

The reports said a delegation, headed by the assistant minister of war, had been sent to Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, to negotiate for a pact of mutual recognition between the two countries. Thedelegation later was planning to go to India.

Savti Domula was said to be inviting Turkish immigrants to populate the country, selecting Turks from among anti-Kemalists in India and Japan to join Singiank military forces.

The new Government was said to have published a slogan, "Banish the Chinese from Singiank."

Y.P.S. News

FIRST UNITED CHURCH

"Resolved that a substitute for the capitalistic system should be adopted in Canada," was the subject of a debate between representatives of the "Volunteers" and "Eagles" at First United Church Young People's Society on Monday evening. The affirmative was ably treated by Miss Margaret Purves and Miss Rowena McIntosh, while Scott Murie and Donald Brewster spoke convincingly for the negative.

Mr. A. T. Hunkin, principal of George Jay School, and Mr. Bert Bailey, principal of Mount Douglas High School, acted as judges. Mr. Bailey, as spokesman for the judges, in awarding the decision to the affirmative, made some helpful suggestions on the priciples of debating, commenting on the wealth of material presented by the debaters. Miss Hazel Stewart, literary convener, expressed the gratitude of the society to the judges and those taking part in the debate.

The worship service was conducted by Miss Nina Joyce, who spoke briefly on the subject of "Cheerfulness as a Christian Virtue." Vocal solos by Mrs. F. Carver, accompanied by John I. Smith at the piano, were much enjoyed. Gordon Robson, the president of the society, announced that Dr. G. B. Switzer would be the guest speaker at next week's meeting, which is in charge of the Christian Fellowship Committee. Rev. Gordon Boothroyd, in welcoming visitors to the society, also thanked those who had taken part in the meeting, and the judges for their kindness in judging the debate.

KNOX

The Knox Presbyterian Young People's Society met on Monday evening with a good attendance. The president, Miss Louise H. Patterson, was in the chair. Miss Agnes Roe read the Scripture lesson, and Mr. George West lead in prayer. Mr. George West was the guest speaker and gave an inspirational talk on "Jesus, the Ideal Man."

During the business meeting, it was announced that the treasure hunt was a great success, over thirty members taking part and at 9:30 p.m. everyone was taken to the home of Rev. J. S. and Mrs. Patterson, where the members enjoyed music and games, and popped corn in front of a large open fireplace. Miss Isla Mitchell won the prize for the hunt. Later the hostess served refreshments.

On Friday the society will debate St. Paul's Presbyterian Y.P.S., the subject is: "Resolved, That the Church Is Keeping Her Hold on the Young People." Knox will take the affirmative. This is the first of a series of debates to be held under the Presbyterian Young People's Association; the society winning the series will be presented with a silver cup. The debate will be held at the Chinese Presbyterian Church on North Park Street at 8 p.m. All members are requested to be present.

Next Monday, Knox Y.P.S. will meet as usual at 8 p.m. when the annual election of officers will take place. All members are asked to make a special effort to be present. Rev. J. S. Patterson then closed the meeting with the Benediction.

METROPOLITAN

A meeting of unusual interest was held under the auspices of the Metropolitan Young People's Society, when it had as guest speaker, A. I. Raja Singham, of the India Christian Mission. The meeting was opened with the singing of the hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains." This was followed by the reading of Scripture by the chairman, Donald McCain, and the repetition of the Lord's Prayer in unison. Immediately after the speaker was introduced, he gave the young people an opportunity to ask questions about India. To each he gave answers which were both interesting and educational.

Hudson's Bay Host to Staff at Annual Dinner

Beaver Club Holds Annual Meeting—A. J. Watson, Store Manager, Presents Report of Organization's Activities During 1933

More than 350 employees, guests of honor and company officials sat down to dinner last night when the local Hudson's Bay Company were hosts to their Victoria staff in the Victorian restaurant of the store. Combined with this event was the annual meeting of the Beaver Club, the store's organization for social, sporting and other activities.

Guests of honor included George H. Robson, Charles H. French, Walter Fowles and Christopher Harding. All these men are old-time employees of the Hudson's Bay Company and have many years of service behind them.

EXTENDS GREETINGS

A. J. Watson, store manager, presented the annual Beaver Club president's report and brought greetings to employees in his official position. He felt with satisfaction that the Beaver Club had passed through 1933 with much progress to its credit.

Mr. Watson dealt mainly with the financial status of the Beaver Club, and his statements proved that the club, although having many obligations to meet during the past year, was now in one of the soundest financial positions in its history.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

He referred to the social activities of the club and the athletic teams sponsored by the Beaver body. Although the teams had not brought home as much silverware as usual, they had played hard and further enhanced their reputation for "playing the game."

"I am pleased to see the increased interest in the choir and the newly formed orchestra," Mr. Watson stated. "The dramatic club has already proved its ability to entertain and must be congratulated on its progress. The recent "Bohemian Night" and "Beaver Club Revue" showed the Beaver Club's ability to present a worthwhile entertainment," Mr. Watson declared.

In closing, Mr. Watson appealed to employees to take a further interest in the club and volced his thanks to retiring members of the board.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The board of directors chosen to guide the 1934 activities of the Beaver Club are Miss Winifred Horrocks, Thomas Wilkinson, G. McAdams, Miss E. Shadbolt, J. Oakman, Charelton Smith, Fred Sellers, L. D. J. Smith and Harry Ward. This board will meet in the near future and elect a president, vice-president and secretary from among its number.

During the evening Mr. Watson and Thomas Horne, retiring president and vice-president of the Beaver Club, respectively, were presented with tokens, 'representing the esteem held by the members of the club for the two officials. Both replied suitably.

Mr. Watson, chairman, prefaced his remarks with a statement that on their recent tour, store managers of the Hudson's Bay Company had expressed themselves as highly impressed with the Victoria store. He read an extract from a letter from P. A. Chester, general manager of Hudson's Bay Company stores, in which the writer paid tribute to the work of the Beaver Club here.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Thomas Wilkinson, secretary, offered the annual report from this department and gave a very encouraging survey of the work done in 1933. Membership had dropped slightly, but welfare work and social activities were very favorable, he reported.

"I am very pleased to report a successful year in our sporting activities," declared Donald Fish, chairman of the athletic committee. Football, cricket, softball, basketball, carpet bowling, golf, turkey shoot, fivepin bowling and the annual sports at the store picnic were referred to by Mr. Fish.

Enthusiasm was the keynote of the social projects of the Beaver Club, stated George McAdams, chairman of the social committee, in presenting a resume of his work during the past year. The club was found to be in healthy financial shape, according to the report submitted by Mr. Watson, president, and Miss Irene McAdams, treasurer.

FINE PROGRAMME

During the evening Cyril Warren conducted community singing. The Beaver Club singers presented two selections, while "Professor Wilkinsky," as the master of ceremonies, was highly entertaining.

FRASER BRIDGE IS DISCUSSED

Toll Concession Sought of Government for New Highway Traffic Unit

Representatives of the Fraser River Bridge Company interviewed Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, yesterday, in reference to plans to erect a $3,000,000 toll bridge over the Fraser River, above the existing rail and traffic structure.

J. C. Collins, a director of the company; J. A. Campbell, the firm's solicitor, and the representatives of an Eastern Canadian financial house with London, England, contacts, were in the party.

The delegation explained the proposal the company seeks to lay before the Legislature at the coming session, and made arrangements to interview the Cabinet as a whole on the return of the Premier.

The proposal rests in part on the belief that the life of the existing free Fraser bridge, at New Westminster, is strictly limited, and that a new crossing may have to be provided within a relatively short time.

KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS DINNER

Celebrate Nineteenth Anniversary of Founding—Declare Aims and Objects

Marking the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of the Kiwanis Service Club movement, seventy-five members and friends of the local club participated in a social evening, yesterday, in Spencer's dining-room and lounge. Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock, and bridge playing concluded the programme.

It was announced during the evening that W. Ellis Brown had recently been appointed treasurer of the Victoria club.

Harold M. Diggon, in speaking of the ideals and objectives of the club, declared the Kiwanian who has lived up to the ideals of the organization may well be known by the following quotation: "He has lived heartily and well, for he has dwelt in the hearts of his friends."

SELF-INTEREST SECOND

The Kiwanis Club was brought into being because of a pressing need for fellowship, companionship and relaxation from the hectic daily battle of business, Mr. Diggon explained. In the organization, men have and are learning to shoulder responsibilities, becoming leaders, and raising their own standard of citizenship in the community, it was declared. In conclusion, the speaker asserted that Kiwanians are making the country a better place to live in because they are placing self-interest second to the interests of those about them.

At Detroit, in 1915, the Kiwanis Service Club movement had its inception, and in February of 1920, the Victoria branch was established, Kenneth Ferguson said.

"WE BUILD"

First motto of the organization was "We Barter," and that expiains the nature of the first organization, Mr. Ferguson said; but within a few years members realized that great community work was waiting for them to do. The motto was then changed to "We Build," and from then on the Kiwanis Clubs in Canada and the United States became champions of service and community welfare work.

"The local club takes credit for having made real contributions to the people, and let us take this credit in the form of an incentive to do even greater work in the future," concluded Mr. Ferguson.

During the evening, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Johns sang a number of duets and solos. Mrs. John Gough was the accompanist.

TAKE FIRM STAND ON CIVIL SERVICE

Ward Two Liberals Opposed to Employment of Married Women Whose Husbands Work

Ward Two Liberal Association went on record last night as being opposed to the employment of married women in the civil service, while their husbands are employed.

The resolution, which was passed unanimously, read: "Resolved, that this association go on record as being not favorable toward married women being employed in the civil service while their husbands are at the same time employed elsewhere."

It was pointed out by many speakers to the resolution that wherever this situation occurs, it works a hardship on others in the community during times of straitened conditions.

The association officers announced that a dance will be held on Friday, at 8:30 p.m., in the Liberal headquarters. President J. W. Casey was in the chair.

LAST RITES TODAY

The funeral of William Henry Drewitt takes place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. A. deB. Owen officiating. Interment will be in the Colwood Burial Park.

TO DECIDE ON SAFETY ACTION

Two Meetings Tonight Will Discuss Preventions for Water Tragedies

Two meetings, both for the purpose of deciding on ways and means to safeguard the Dallas Road shoreline for boaters and swimmers, will be held tonight in Victoria. Those in support of the campaign instituted by Kenneth R. Genn, will gather in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden at 8:15 o'clock, while members of Foul Bay Community Association will meet at 8 o'clock in Presbyterian Hall, Wildwood Street.

Mayor David Leeming will be present at the meeting in Crystal Garden, when it is proposed to organize the Victoria and Island Lifeboat Association, with the object of establishing life-saving depots with adequate equipment all along the Dallas Road shoreline. Membership in the organization will be open to all upon payment of a small annual fee.

Captain George Kirkendale will preside, and the speakers will be Captain M. D. Harbord, Captain J. A. Phillipsen, Kenneth R. Genn and B. C. Gillie.

Recommendation by the Foul Bay Community Association's executive that a memorial in the form of a boathouse, with a lifeboat and safety equipment, be erected on the beach in memory of the late Dr. Fred Harling, who so valiantly gave his life on January 15, in a rescue attempt, will be presented to the meeting in Presbyterian Hall. Percy C. Payne, president, will preside.

What Today Means

"AQUARIUS"

If January 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., from 10:45 to 11:45 a.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m.

If you were born on January 24, you are blessed with a forceful character, and a born leader. You easily dominate other people, so you have the essential qualifications to make a successful executive. You have a great deal of initiation, and are inclined to be impatient with others lacking this excellent trait. You are almost uncanny in being able to anticipate conditions, and the results they may bring. Your popularity is due to the confidence you inspire in those with whom you are thrown in close contact. You will never allow your business to interfere with your home life. You can forgive most any fault, except untruthfulness. You have, and expect to possess, high ideals.

The child born on January 24 has been endowed with a wonderful disposition. Each passing year will bring out marvelous traits of character. It will develop a very versatile mind. You should plan its education thoughtfully. Be careful you do not let yourself, or others, make too much of a fuss over this child, thus causing it to become egotistical. Just as soon as it is old enough, encourage it to take an interest in religion, and this you can do by seeing it is regular in its attendance at some Sunday school.

The woman born on January 24 will be more content if she follows a career. You are so constituted you can at the same time adjust yourself to married life without it interfering. You are ambitious, but must curb the tendency to be impatient. Success will crown your efforts.

The man born on January 24 is predisposed to be very serious and studious. You do not understand people of a more frivolous disposition, and show too plainly that they annoy you. If you desire to succeed, you must make the effort to adjust yourself to the varied peculiarities common to mankind. It may be well for you to remember: youth must have its fling.

People born on January 24 will get a great deal of happiness out of life, if they will engage in charitable enterprises. It might be well for you to recall the old saying: "Charity begins at home." Do not let the desire to see your name in print, or some other form of cheap publicity, influence your giving. Many times needy cases, unknown to the world at large, are more worthy of your attention. People born on January 24 usually are rewarded as leaders in their communities, and can exercise a tremendous amount of influence for good.

MILBURN'S HEALTH AND NERVE PILLS

Men and women toss night after night on sleepless beds. Their eyes do not close in the refreshing repose that comes to those whose nerves are right. They are irritable and nervous, weak and worn out, and everything looks dark and gloomy.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills is the remedy that is required to restore them the blessing of good health. They bring back the sound refreshing sleep, tone up the nerves, and impart that sense of buoyancy to the spirits that is the result of renewed mental and physical vigor.

MARINE, RAIL and AIR

Local Mariner Had Interesting Spell Near Trial Island

Captain D. J. Butler Recalls Experience With Cargo Schooner Katie Back in the Early Nineties—Mistook Passage at Night

"The story of Monday week's tragedy off Foul Bay recalls to my memory the narrow escape we had not far to the eastward, inside Trial Island, in September, 1892," Captain D. J. Butler stated yesterday. "A few of the old-timers along the waterfront will remember the scow-schooner Katie, owned and operated by my brother and myself.

"We had landed a cargo of oats from Boundary Bay for the Brackman & Ker Milling Company, and had left Victoria harbor at midnight to get another load. Outside we squared away before a rising southwest wind. Everything looking lovely, my brother and our sailor man sought the seclusion of the cabin down below and were soon in the arms of 'Murphy.'

"The night was murky, with no light on Trial Island, and I mistook the gap which divided the island for the inside passage. The noise of the surf ahead warned me of danger, and I spun the wheel 'hard-a-starboard, bringing the main boom from port to starboard with such force that it shook the Katie from keel to truck. She rounded to the wind, but struck broadside as the crew rushed on deck.

WATER WAS DEEP

"Fortunately where her side thumped against the shore, the water was deep enough for our shallow draft craft to keep afloat, and no harder workingmen were in British Columbia waters for the next hour. The fore and main sheets were hauled in, halyards let go and down came the sails by the run. The thumping continued while we got the boat overboard and unshackled the chain from the anchor and took it in the boat. Then with the end of a coil of rope attached to the anchor, we fought hard against the wind and got offshore a few hundred feet and let the anchor go.

"Aboard the Katie again, we manned the windlass and soon our craft was creeping off the shore, and when daylight came, she lay riding out the blow with two anchors out ahead. During the afternoon, the wind spent its force, and our only chance of getting away easily was to run through the dividing gap of Trial Island. We surveyed the channel and waited for high water. Then we 'hove-in' our chains, got the largest anchor on board, unshackled part of the chain from the second anchor, buoyed it, and hoisted the sails again, hanging on aft until the Katie's nose pointed fair for the gap, when, like a frightened bird, she darted through.

POOR ANCHORAGE

"On the east side of the island, our anchor would not hold, although we tried to bring up again and again. At last we headed north, and under the sheltering land of the present golf links, where we anchored our craft and went back in the small boat for the rest of our ground tackle.

"The author of 'Three Men in a Boat' told an amusing story, but our experience with chain and anchor was far different; for in crossing the inside channel with Trial Island astern, the ebb tide almost overwhelmed the boat.

"We brought many cargoes to Victoria before we sold the Katie. Two years later she was turned into a steamer, and was used afterwards by different owners until she ended her days in the inside passage of Trial Island."

Alberta Man Soon Got Relief Through Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. Ohm Says Dodd's Make Him Feel Fine

MACKAY, Alta., Jan. 23 (Special).—"I was troubled with my back and could hardly stand up. I tried different medicines but couldn't get relief," says Mr. W. H. Ohm, well-known resident of this place. "A friend told me about Dodd's Kidney Pills and I got several boxes and am now all right. I am a carpenter by trade and work in the coal mines during the Winter months. I always keep a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house, and at the slightest sign of Kidney trouble start taking them immediately. They soon make me feel fine."

If you are suffering with your kidneys, don't delay. Waiting never helped anyone. Delays are dangerous. Turn at once to Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can do so with perfect confidence. A few pills taken in time may avert a serious illness.

USE OF OPIUM CAUSES ALARM

Missionaries in Shensi Province Protest Against Heavy Production

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 23 (CP).—The 10,000,000 people of Shensi Province, enjoying their first year of good crops and relative prosperity after five years of drouth and famine, are now subject to a new curse—the almost universal use of opium.

Missionaries living in Sianfu, the provincial capital, report to Shanghai that the so-called board for opium suppression is really nothing more nor less than an official organization for raising revenues for the provincial government from the growers of poppies and from the smokers of the drug.

The officials loudly call attention to the fact that an order has been issued prohibiting the planting of opium poppies in thirty-eight out of the ninety-two hsien or counties in the province. But it develops that these thirty-eight counties, because of soil and climatic conditions, produce little or no opium, and that the regions where the poppy flourishes there are no restrictions.

MOST PROFITABLE CROP

Even in the area where the prohibition is supposed to be enforced poppies are grown in whatever small patches are favorable. This, it is said, is done at orders from the local military authorities, who then collect double taxes on the opium producing lands, because opium is the most profitable of all crops.

Shensi is one of the few provinces where the land taxes are not excessive, and only in a few districts have they been levied several years in advance. But all goods entering the province are taxed twice—once an entry tax, and again a "destination tax" when any shipment reaches the town from which it was ordered.

TRAVEL SCHOOL SHOULD APPEAL

Novel Term Begins Next Fall When Ship Leaves Los Angeles

Here's one school where truant officers are not needed. It is a far cry from the little red schoolhouse to the spacious campus of the Jones Travel School for Boys, a campus that takes in the major part of the world.

This novel school's term begins September 4, when the students enroll in Los Angeles on an ocean liner, the motorship Leme, of the Italian Libera Line. The General Steamship Corporation, Limited, has arranged to turn over the entire vessel to the school.

The first recess is at La Libertad, Salvador, and the next at the Panama Canal, places that most school children see only on a map. Then there will be nearly a month of study, but even geometry will be found pleasant when it's done on the blue South Atlantic.

Shoreside study begins at Marseilles, France. From there the student body will travel leisurely through Paris, Lourdes, Burgos, Segobia, Madrid, Toledo, Cordova, Seville and Jerez de la Frontera to Malaga, being afforded ample opportunity to mix sightseeing with algebra.

At Malaga, a beautiful resort on the shores of the Mediterranean, the school will "dig in" for the Winter, leaving there in late January to continue its roaming study. Trips to Granada, Alicante, Barcelona, Carcasonne, Avignon, Grasse and the Riviera bring the students to the heart of Italy. Genoa, Milan, Venice, Bologna and Florence will be thoroughly explored. Then a full month, including Easter, in Rome, which will celebrate Holy Week during the stay.

Leaving Rome, the school will visit Sorrento, Naples and neighboring towns, embarking for home on another Libera Line ship.

The school, which has the endorsement of leading educators, provides courses in all junior and senior high school, college entrance and art and music subjects. Its staff consists of four certified instructors, a tour manager, a physician and a house mother.

The Continental tours are in charge of the American Express Company. The General Steamship Corporation, Limited, is arranging the ocean travel.

Small Dividends Featured British Shipping in 1933

"Fairplay's" annual summary of earnings of British shipping companies shows that during the past year twenty-nine liner companies, with a capital of £67,171,316, and owning fleets aggregating 6,217,483 tons gross, valued in the companies' books at £97,046,600, distributed a dividend representing only 1.57 per cent, while, if the reserves are added, the return is reduced to 1.12 per cent on the amount of the shareholders' capital at risk.

Of the forty-eight cargo boat companies whose earnings are summarized, only eleven pay any dividend at all, the average received by the shareholders in the forty-eight companies being just under 1 per cent.

Of British liner companies whose figures are recorded, twenty did not pay a dividend, while of the remainder five paid less than 4 per cent, including that only the preference dividend has been paid.

Nineteen shipbuilding companies whose results are also given paid an average dividend in the past year of only 1.89 per cent, eleven making no distribution at all.

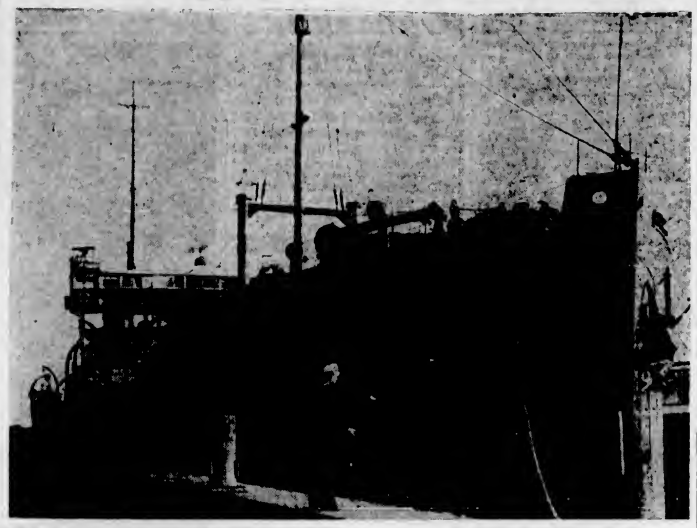
Lady Serpent Is Seen Third Time At Pender Island

For the third time, word comes from South Pender Island to the effect that one of the Cadborosauruses has again been seen by residents of that favored spot, and by the same party, too, although on each occasion other witnesses have been along.

Last week Cyril B. Andrews, who has figured in the other two chronicles of the "serpent," accompanied by Arthur Pender and Eileen McKay, watched "It" for twenty-five minutes while it was apparently feeding on a herring school off Wallace Point.

From Bedwell Harbor wharf, the witnesses noticed a commotion in the water, and they walked out to the Indian Reserve on the point, and there they saw the monster passing out to the entrance. There were seagulls flying about, and they kept pecking at it, according to the statement of the onlookers; but none were harmed. Five humps were showing at times, and the back was smooth with a black mark down the middle. The head was about a foot out of the water, and they saw that the front portion was flesh-colored and whiskerless.

"Just Dropped In for Some Water"



THE Japanese naval tanker Erimo, which, according to its commander, "just dropped into port to obtain some water," was anchored in San Francisco Bay on January 10 when the United States Navy planes took off on their long flight to Hawaii. The destination of the tanker when she left Japan was San Pedro, California, where she was to take on oil. Not only was the Japanese vessel in port at the time of the inception of the flight, but the officers and crew went for an "outing" in Marin County, overlooking Paradise Cove, where the planes took off. "My men like San Francisco very much and enjoy an outing here very much," said the commander, with many ingratiating smiles.

New Cunard Ship Has No Name Yet; Designated "534"

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Contrary to published reports, the new superliner now being built for the Cunard Line has not yet been named, according to H. P. Borer, general passenger manager of the line in New York. The ship's official title for the time being is simply No. 534, the shipyard's designation.

"We have not yet chosen a name," said Mr. Borer, "and no name will be selected until a short time before we are ready to launch the new liner.

"It has been stated that the new ship—which, by the way, will be 75,000 tons, the world's largest—will be called the Princess Elizabeth. As far as I know, there is no truth in this.

"Our early ships all had names ending in 'ia,' beginning with the Britannia in 1840. We deviated from this termination a few times in the early history of the company, but not since the Gallia was built in 1879.

"When the right time comes, the board of directors of the company will hold a meeting and select a name, at least three being offered for consideration. Until that meeting is held, our big ship will just be the 534."

Locomotive Goes Through Bridge; Fireman Missing

LEWISTON, Idaho, Jan. 23 (AP).—A Northern Pacific passenger locomotive plunged through a weakened bridge across Potlatch Creek, between Juliaetta and Arrow early today. William N. Skidmore, fireman, of Spokane, was missing, and it was believed he was swept down stream.

Railroad officials here said they were informed only the locomotive and tender left the rails. It turned over on its side. The engineer and passengers on the train, which was bound from Spokane to Lewiston, were not hurt.

Potlatch Creek went on a rampage after heavy rains last night, and the bridge was weakened by high water. The stream has been out of its banks since last month.

Cunard Group of Steamship Lines Had Busy Season

According to the Cunard Line's report of passengers carried during 1933, it develops that, for the eleventh successive year, the Cunard and associated lines have carried more passengers than any other line or group of lines.

The total passengers carried during 1933, by the Cunard and associated lines, reach 127,065.

A feature of the year was the Mauretania's list of twelve-day cruises to the West Indies and South America, by virtue of which the cruise carryings of the line for the year also exceeded those of 1932. Thirteen of these cruises were operated, and a total of 7,303 passengers were carried. The cruises covered the months of January, February and March for the Winter season, and July, August and September for the Summer vacation season.

Claim and Counter-Claim Results From Damage to Ships

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23 (CP).—Suit has been entered in Admiralty Court against Ss. Masunda by Canadian Pacific Railway Company, for damage suffered by Ss. Princess Maquinna by collision in Alberni Canal on January 18.

An appearance has been entered by Messrs. Griffin, Montgomery & Smith, solicitors for Maclay, McIntyre, Limited, of Glasgow, who counter claim for damage to the Masunda. Both ships are being repaired at Victoria.

The damages, it is said, will be very heavy. The parties are arranging to furnish security for the respective claims.

J. E. McMullen, K.C., issued the writ for the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Fine Danish Ship Here for Several Hours During Day

Europa Bringing Cargo—President Grant Docking This Morning—Aorangi, Corrientes, Lochgoil and Ruth Alexander Here Tomorrow

Two fine ships in the European-British Columbia service are the Europa and the Amerika, of the British East Asiatic Company, Limited. Sister motor vessels, the combined freight and passenger liners are of 17,400 tons displacement, and have splendid accommodation for fifty-six passengers. They are registered at Copenhagen.

This afternoon, one of these ships, the Europa, will dock here inbound from Europe via Panama and California ports. The liner will tie up at Ogden Point Piers to discharge citrus fruits and vegetables for local consignees, and will be here several hours. King Brothers, who are agents for the ship, extend an invitation to the interested public to inspect the vessel while in port. The time of the Europa's arrival was not known definitely last evening, but it can be ascertained by applying to the shipping office this morning.

Outbound for California ports, the Pacific Steamship Lines Ss. Dorothy Alexander will sail from Rithet Piers at midnight, this date. The Dorothy will arrive from Seattle at 10 o'clock to embark Island and Mainland travelers proceeding South, and to load some general cargo for San Francisco.

HERE THIS MORNING

From ports in the Orient, the American Mail Line Ss. President Grant, Captain R. J. Healy, commander, is due at William Head this morning at 8 o'clock, according to late advices received from the captain of the ship by W. M. Allan yesterday. This should allow the liner to dock at Rithet Piers about an hour later. The Grant has passengers, mails and cargo for Victoria.

Tomorrow promises to be a fairly busy day along Victoria's outer waterfront. Four ships are due to dock during the day. Two of them are arriving from the United Kingdom via the Canal and California, one is inbound from Australia via New Zealand, Fiji and Hawaii, while the fourth is coming from California.

First thing Thursday morning, the Donaldson Line refrigerator ship Corrientes, will dock at Rithet Piers to discharge general and load some apple cargo for the homeward voyage, according to A. E. Shanks, of Rithet, Consolidated, agents for the ship. About the same time the Royal Mail Line's motorship Loch Goil, will tie up at Ogden Point Piers to discharge and load cargo, according to Adam P. Moffatt, representative of the line in Victoria.

DUE IN TOMORROW

Twenty-four hours ahead of time, the motorship Aorangi, Captain J. F. Spring-Brown, commander, will arrive at William Head from "Down Under," at 10 o'clock in the morning. This should bring the liner up to Rithet Piers shortly before 11 o'clock. The Aorangi has passengers, mails and cargo for the port. Completing here, she will continue to Vancouver.

Inbound from California ports, the Pacific Steamship Lines Ss. Ruth Alexander is due to dock at Rithet Piers at 10 o'clock, and is scheduled to sail for Seattle at midnight.

Still discharging lumber cargo at Esquimalt, preparatory to entering drydock for survey, the Masunda is alongside the drydock wharf; while the freighter Silvermaple is still loading lumber at Ogden Point Piers.

DOLLAR WORTH MORE IN EUROPE

Agents Claim Travelers Can Purchase All-Inclusive Tickets Before Starting Tours

A favorable year for the overseas tourist business to Europe is expected by steamship lines and travel organizations, according to views expressed by officials of the Canadian Pacific steamships.

In spite of exchange variations the dollar today buys more in this direction than for many years past. It was pointed out, the difference being derived from the change in rates since 1926, the year now regarded as the "year of normalcy."

The average minimum rate of all important trans-Atlantic steamship lines, officials went on to say, is considerably less than in 1926, especially in the better class accommodation, where the reduction is very large, some rooms with bath costing now nearly 50 per cent less than during that year.

It was also stated that no matter what countries and currencies are included in a trip to London, the traveler can insure a definite total cost beyond any uncertainty by making arrangements in advance with his travel agent to include, if he likes, everything from steamship passage to restaurant tips abroad.

Such inclusive totals would, it was asserted, prove in itself that low trans-Atlantic rates and the lower prices that will prevail in Europe this year, with reductions in tourist facilities of many countries going into effect to offset exchange variations, will make a European vacation one of real value for money, even when compared with the last few years, which were no more normal in respect to travel than in any other phase of condition.

Vignettes of East Given by Visitor From This Country

Mrs. T. H. Johns Addresses Women's Canadian Club, Describing Bits of Philippine Islands, China and Japan Seen During Tour

CLEVER vignettes of the Orient, in which, by the introduction of apt figures and incidents, she illustrated the sharp contrasts everywhere apparent through the contact of the age-old East and the West, were given by Mrs. T. H. Johns in a delightful talk before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel. The pictures, she stated in her introduction, were the results of her short visit to the Orient last Summer, and must be appraised accordingly as tourist impressions rather than a deep and searching study of the East.

East and West stand side by side everywhere that one goes. The first thing that strikes one is the great contrast between the two, between the old and the new, between the highly conservative attitude of the people on the one side, and their very progressive attitude on the other, said the speaker, who proceeded to depict the conditions she thus generalized.

VILLA AND HOVEL

The first vignette was of Manilla, the first place visited. Here, in a city three centuries old, one found almost side by side a modern Spanish villa with every up-to-date convenience and the hovels of the native housing pigs, chickens, dogs and donkey, as well as the family, while the streets were filled with traffic of every description from the buffalo-drawn cart to the modern motor car. The Filipino being anything but energetic, women do most of the work, and laundry is washed by the primitive method of beating the clothes on stones in the streams. Even in the most modern of their hotels, the tourist may be disturbed by the sight of lizards crawling over the ceiling, as Mrs. Johns was.

Hongkong, built on an island taken over by the British in 1841, was described as one of the three most beautiful ports in the world. Here, too, there was a sharp contrast between the European and the native settlements. Here, as in Canton, the native women often seemed to be but beasts of burden. In Canton the most interesting thing seen by the tourists was the "City of the Dead," one of the reception rooms of which was described in detail.

LIFE OF CANALS

Shanghai was sensed long before one reached it by the changed color of the sea from the Yangtze River. The canals of Shanghai, like those of Canton, teemed with life, sampans, junks and all manner of other craft. The native city, the streets of which are so narrow that no vehicular traffic can pass through them, are indescribably filthy, but teem with interest. A visit to an ancient tea house in the centre of this native city was recounted in some detail, tallying with descriptions given by Pearl Buck in her "Good Earth."

Japan held still more interest. The visitors spent more time there than in China, and among the places described were Nagasaki, Kyoto, Nikko, Tokio and the sacred mountain of Fujiama. Until 1858, Japan had held aloof from the foreigner, then, after a period of "open door" and cultivation of Western culture and commerce, had more recently turned to a revival of their ancient customs, dress and art.

LAND OF FESTIVALS

Japan being a land of festivals, the visitors felt they had been fortunate in arriving in Nagasaki about the time of the celebration of the Festival of Lanterns. This picturesque three-day ceremony is celebrated simultaneously throughout Japan, being associated with the traditional Buddhist belief that once annually the souls of the dead come back to earth. Lanterns are hung everywhere in their honor, and offerings of fish and rice are placed where they can be partaken of by the departed. On the third day the lighted lanterns are placed on barges and sent out to sea to light the spirits on their way back to the spirit land.

Mrs. Johns and her party entered as fully into the celebrations as tourists who do not speak the language can, on one ocasion finding herself surrounded in the streets by a group of giggling Japanese maidens, who showed their friendly interest by fingering her clothes and admiring her rings. A common bond of humor united them when they discovered that the only mutually understood expression was the English "how much?" and its Japanese equivalent.

CITY OF SHRINES

In Kyoto, full of shrines and priceless relics of bygone days, the charm of old Japan still remains. A glimpse of the Imperial palace was given, and, as further evidence of a past of great art development, a Shogun palace filled with Buddhist carvings, friezes and mural decorations.

Nikko, the shrine centre of Japan, was also briefly described, with one of the temples in which there are two pillars turned upside down, being so perfect that it was feared they would incur for their maker the wrath of the gods if some flaw were not created in them. Japanese domestic architecture was also pictured in a few intimate pictures gained from first-hand experience with their beds and baths. Intending visitors to Japan were advised to be sure to be the first to reach the bath, as in the Japanese household the entire family use the same tub for their final "rinse" after performing the initial ablutions in smaller tubs. The spotless cleanliness of other domestic arrangements was given tribute. In conclusion the speaker described a visit to a modern department store with roof garden and other Western details complete. An aircraft and naval equipment exhibition housed in the same building had drawn much attention.

Mrs. Christie moved a cordial vote of thanks to the speaker.

The soloist, Miss Gladys Marchant, ably accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Green, gave much pleasure with her two numbers.

Mrs. Sarah Cavin, widow of Captain J. M. Cavin, who was for many years well known in shipping circles on the Coast, celebrated her eighty-first birthday yesterday at her home, 422 John Street. She was born in St. Andrew's New Brunswick, on January 23, 1853, and was married on January 1, 1873, coming to Victoria from California in the old Ss. Dakota on April 2, 1877, landing at Esquimalt.

Her eight children, four sons and four daughters are all living, Mrs. T. Asroe, of Vancouver; Mrs. W. J. Muir, Mrs. H. Brown and Miss Nettie Cavin, Mr. Hugh Cavin, Mr. Albert Cavin, Captain Ellice Cavin and Captain William Cavin, all of Victoria.

Mrs. Cavin's reminiscences of old days when she came to Victoria are most interesting, and on journeys to "Gastown," which later became Vancouver, she accompanied her husband, the late Captain Cavin, in his tug the Pilot.

Mrs. Cavin has lived in her John Street house for fifty years. Friends called yesterday and others sent messages of congratulations and good wishes.

During the year just closed ten monthly meetings and three executive meetings were held, with an enrollment of forty-one members. The secretary's report showed that funds had been derived from card parties, old-time dances and teas, the proceeds of one dance going to the Pioneer Society of Saanich for their new log house. The institute took second prize at the Spring Flower Show in Victoria in the Institute class. A daffodil and hyacinth show was held in the Spring. This was followed later by a Spring flower show. A mothers' day tea was held in May, and in August the annual picnic was held at Mill Bay.

In October the harvest supper was held in conjunction with the W.A. of St. Michael's and, as usual, was a decided success. At various meetings demonstrations of cake icing, glove making, wool spinning, wood carving and sandwich making were enjoyed. There was also a paint demonstration and talks on the "Tudor Rose League" and "Planting of Fall Bulbs." A jam shower for the Solarium, a baby clothes shower and donations to the Saanich Welfare hamper fund were among the many things accomplished. Donations were also given to the Salvation Army, and letters of thanks were received for the numerous donations and kindnesses shown.

It was decided that the institute contribute $5 to the Othea Scott fund. It was also decided to hold a children's Valentine dance on February 16. Thanks were extended to Mrs. Hoole for convening the card games, and Mrs. Reeves was appointed convener for the coming year. Mrs. H. H. Reed was appointed delegate to the Local Council of Women, with Mrs. McQueen as alternative. Affiliation fees to the Vancouver Island Horticultural Society will be forwarded, and Mrs. Reed was appointed delegate for the year.

Election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss K. Oldfield; vice-president, Mrs. D. Grieve; secretary, Mrs. K. Mead-Robins; assistant secretary, Mrs. H. H. Reed; treasurer, Miss E. Phillips; directors, Mrs. Hoole, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Reeves. New members welcomed were Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. H. Campbell, Mrs. Monkton, Mrs. Languish and Miss Phillips. Tea was served at the close of the meeting, when the executive were hostesses.

SYNOPSIS

The J. Wellington Gedges, of Glendale, Cal., have taken the Chateau Blissac, near the little town of St. Rocque, on the French coast. Or rather, Mrs. Gedge has, and she greatly depresses her tubby little henpecked husband by informing him that she is going to make him the American Ambassador to France, through the influence of Senator Opal and the Vicomtesse de Blissac, who is very close to the French government. She is going to London for a few days to straighten out a kink in her British income tax, and while he is on his way to set her favorite seasickness remedy, two old friends, Americans, meet at the Hotel de Estrangers. They are Gordon (Oily) Carlisle, whose specialty is the confidence game, and Soup Slattery, expert in safe-blowing. Their reminiscences disclose the fact that both have felt the depression keenly. Also that Soup has found it necessary at times to stoop to an occasional stick-up. After they part, Soup holds up Gedge, who has no money, recognizes Soup as the fellow who stuck him up once in Chicago, and borrows 1,000 francs from him. Over drinks in a cafe, Soup learns that Mrs. Gedge has $60,000 in jewels. While Soup and Oily are figuring how to get them, the reader is transported to London, where Patrick B. (Packy) Franklyn, young American millionaire sportsman, and former Yale football star, is seeing the beautiful Lady Beatrice Bracken, his fiancee, off at Waterloo Station. The Vicomte de Blissac unexpectedly appears, and begins to tell how he and Packy painted New York red.

CHAPTER IV

The Vicomte's eyes, which had widened a little at the sight of so much beauty at so short a range, now left Beatrice. It was plainly Packy, the old friend, in whom he was really interested.

"So you got home all right, my Packy?" He chuckled amusedly, and turned to Beatrice, all smiles, as one imparting delightful news.

"When last I saw this old farceur it is in New York, and he is jumping out of the window of a speakeasy with two policemen after him. Great fun! Great good fun! Do you remember, my Packy, that night . . ."

"Are you off somewhere, Veek?" asked Packy hastily.

"Oh, yes. But do you remember . . .?"

"Where?"

"I go to St. Rocque. I catch the train at a quarter past four to Southampton."

Packy sighed a sigh of relief. "Well, do you? It's a debatable point. I don't know if you have happened to notice that it is now four-fourteen."

"Zut!" exclaimed the Vicomte, and vanished like an eel into mud.

Beatrice was the first to break a silence during which the warm Summer day seemed to cool off several degrees.

"Oh, the Veek's all right."

From what I have heard of him, I don't agree with you."

A porter opened the gates, and they passed through. They arrived at an empty first-class compartment, and Packy took up his stand at the door to repel intruders.

He had fallen into a meditative silence. He had just discovered, and was shocked to discover, that this meeting the Vicomte de Blissac had affected him with a well-defined spasm of what the ancient Greeks called pothos, a sudden, deplorable nostalgia for that regrettable past of which the other had formed a part.

He fought it down. It was revolting, he told himself, that the fiance of a wonderful girl like Beatrice should not be utterly contented with his lot. He reached for her hand and pressed it.

"It would be so good for you," said Beatrice, and Packy became aware that his reverie had caused him to miss her latest remarks.

"I'm sorry," he said, "I was thinking of something. What was that?"

"I was just saying that I wished you would try to make friends with somebody worth while, like Mr. Eggleston. He is the sort of man I would like you to know."

"I must give him a buzz some time."

He turned aside to stare sourly at a grocer named Witherspoon who was showing a disposition to invade the compartment. And so forbidding was his eye that the latter quailed and passed on, taking with him Mrs. Witherspoon and their four children.

". . . at a quarter to five," said Beatrice.

Once more Packy found that he had missed something. "What's that?"

"Mr. Eggleston wants you to meet him at a quarter to five in the lobby of the Northumberland Hotel. He is giving you tea."

"What?"

"And I want you to cultivate him. He is a most interesting man, and he will do you a lot of good."

A cloud had come over Packy's cheerful face. "Have I really got to go and swill tea with this side-whiskered bird?"

"Don't call him a side-whiskered bird. Yes, you have. A friend like that will keep you from getting into mischief."

Packy started. "Mischief? Me!"

"You know perfectly well that, left to yourself, you would get into hot water of some kind the moment my back was turned."

"I wouldn't dream . . ."

"Have you forgotten what happened when I went off to Norfolk two months ago?"

"But I explained that—explained it fully. I got mixed up in a birthday party . . ."

"Yes, and I don't want you to get mixed up in any more. They were very upset about that at home. You know how particular Father and Mother are."

Packy nodded penitently. Modern laxness, he was aware, had not touched the Earl of Stableford and his countess.

"Aunt Gwendolyn said you were surprise, it contained only no customers, but, oddly enough, no barbers, either. But he was not in the frame of mind to devote much attention to the matter. Sitting down to wait, he gave himself up to long, loving thoughts of Beatrice. A quarter of an hour later, he awoke to discover that the place was still entirely free from barbers.

For these apparently inexplicable mysteries there is always a solution. We cannot here go into the rights and wrongs of the case, but for some little while past disaffection had been rearing its ugly head among the hairdressing staff of the Hotel Northumberland, with the result that at precisely four o'clock that afternoon a lightning strike had been called and the rebels had downed scissors.

Unaware of this, Packy continued to sit perplexed. And he had just decided to give the thing up and take his custom elsewhere when the telephone rang at his elbow.

To ignore a ringing telephone is one of the few feats of which humanity has so far proved incapable. Packy took up the receiver, and instantaneously a loud and irascible voice with an American intonation nearly broke his eardrum.

"Hello! Hello! Hello! Say how many more times have I got to call up before I get a little service? Come on! Come on! If this is the way you run your hotels on this side, God help England! Do you think I've nothing better to do than sit here trying to get a blasted barber shop on the wire? Come on! Come on! Come on!

"Are you there?" inquired Packy mildly.

"A what?"

Packy drew himself up a little haughtily. Comment and criticism from his affianced he was prepared to accept. But when it came to her moth-eater relations shooting off their heads . . .

"That's all right what that old cat-fancier and cheater-at-solitaire says," he replied with a dignity which became him well. "Here's a little message which you can pass on to her from me. You can tell her . . . No, on second thought, perhaps better not. Just give her my love and say I hope it chokes her."

He suspended his remarks in order to foil the attempt of an assistant cashier named Bodkin to muscle into the compartment together with his wife Miriam, his sister Louise, his caged parrot Polly, and what had the appearance of being the full strength of some juvenile school. His success seemed to exercise upon Beatrice a softening effect. When she resumed the conversation, it was on a gentler note.

"I do hope you won't get slack while I'm away. I want you to keep on going to concerts and picture galleries."

"Atta Yascha!"

"And there's that new play at the Gate Theatre they say is so wonderful. What I feel is that if you were going about with a man like Blair Eggleston . . ."

"I won't let him out of my sight. If you want me to sop up tea with him this afternoon, I will sop it up till my eyeballs squeak. And day by day in every way I will haunt him more and more . . . Hello, you're off."

"Don't miss Pryzsky."

"I won't."

"And see that play at the Gate."

"I will."

Packy stood on the platform, running an appraising hand over the back of his head. Yes, he saw what she meant. They had got the 4:31 off on the dot, so there would be ample time for him to look in at the barber shop of the Hotel Northumberland before meeting the pill Eggleston. He hailed a cab.

The barber shop of the Hotel Northumberland, which is situated in the basement, is, as a rule, a busy, bustling place. To Packy's

"Are you there, darn it! That's the point. I've been ringing for the last half hour. This is Senator Opal speaking, from Suite 400. I want a man up here at once. Senator Ambrose Opal. Suite 400. Send a man here immediately. I want my hair cut."

It was on the tip of Packy's tongue to inform the other that by one of those coincidences which so often occur in life he himself was in precisely the same situation. But even as he opened his mouth to reveal this bond which linked them he became aware of a disturbing emotion.

In his unregenerate days, in that graceless past before Beatrice's beneficent influence had come to give his soul its daily dozen, such an opportunity for making a fool of himself would have enchanted him. With a good deal of dismay, he found that it was enchanting now. Indeed, it was making his mouth water. Only the thought of Beatrice . . .

"Come on! Come on!"

"Come on! Come on! Come on!"

Suddenly Packy's conscience was at rest. He wondered what he had been hesitating for. Beatrice, he saw now, would be the first to applaud the bringing of aid and comfort to a distressed Senator.

And there was another thing. This obviously must be the famous Senator Opal, the great Dry legislator, the man who had only just failed to put over the Opal Bill, which was to have been about six times as severe as the Volstead Act. If he shrank from the proposed tryst, he would probably never get another chance of meeting this celebrity. And Beatrice was always saying how much she wanted him to meet the best people.

"I will be right up, sir," he said respectfully.

Lovers' Ruse to Wed Frustrated

Germany has no Gretna Green, and eloping couples have to find other ways of outwitting parents and the law.

No stranger scene was ever witnessed at the smithy on the Scottish border, however, than that which recently confronted the village policeman of Trampe, near Eberswalde. Opening his door to urgent knocking, he found a girl and a man, the man covered in blood, his head bandaged, his clothes torn. They had just had a motor accident, the girl told him; her companion was gravely injured, and the village policeman, in his capacity as Amusvorsteher, must immediately marry them under that provision of the law which allows marriage without previous publication of banns if either of the parties is critically ill.

The village policeman, however, was suspicious, and with right, for it proved that the blood was pig's blood, the bandage concealed no wound, and the rents had been deliberately made. The would-be bride was restored to her parents, who had rigidly opposed her marriage at the age of seventeen, and today is back at school. The twenty-nine-year-old actor whom she desired to marry, thus presenting her parents with an accomplished fact, has been arrested and will be charged with abduction.

Two Cockney laborers had struggled across the works yard with a heavy piece of machinery. They had arrived at the foot of a flight of small steps into the boiler-house and the time had come for the supreme effort.

Having had a "breather" one made as if to start, but the other stopped him with: "'Arf a mo', Bill, wait till somebody's watchin' us."

High TIME for Ipana!

NEVER a dull moment in this young lady's life. But she had better find time to care for teeth and gums before "pink tooth brush" robs her smile of its charm.

"Pink" on your tooth brush means gums are weak, unhealthy. It leads to dull and dingy teeth and may even end in gingivitis, Vincent's disease or pyorrhea.

The soft foods we eat today rob our gums of stimulation. Gums become tender, flabby, they tend to bleed. Massage with Ipana tones them. Keeps them exercised and healthy.

Buy a Tube of Ipana Today!
Brush your teeth the regular way. Then rub Ipana right into the gums. Soon you note a new sparkle to your teeth—a new firmness to your gums. Keep on with it and they'll stay that way.

SHORE CASE TO COME UP AGAIN TODAY

N.H.L. Governors Will Hear Evidence of Recent Brawl at Boston

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (CP).—With the Bailey-Shore affair the paramount piece of business before them, governors of the National Hockey League meet here tomorrow at a special meeting called by President Frank Calder.

Supported by Ottawa Senators and Montreal Maroons, Conny Smythe, of Toronto Maple Leafs, automatically forced the extra session by protesting the recent ruling of Managing Director Frank Patrick in the Shore-Bailey case.

Irving "Ace" Bailey, Toronto right wing star, suffered a fractured skull at Boston, December 12, when knocked to the ice by Eddie Shore, Boston defence ace. The latter was suspended from that date until next Sunday night.

The Boston Bruins' management staged a benefit game for the Toronto player that netted several thousand dollars. Smythe, however, claimed the Leafs lost the services of a first class hockeyman, and that in addition, the "Ace" himself suffered such severe injuries his earning power in hockey will be greatly affected. Smythe thinks Boston should pay the Leafs $8,000.

Harry Cooper Is Ruled Off Florida Tracks Following Narcotic Seizure

MIAMI, Jan. 23 (CP).—Permanent debarment of Harry Cooper, Canadian-born racehorse owner and trainer, and his stable from all tracks in the state, together with cancellation of his training licence, was ordered today by the Florida Racing Association.

The action followed Cooper's arrest on charges growing out of the finding in his home of narcotics, needles and alleged formula for doping horses.

Cooper was held on $5,000 bond, pending preliminary hearing before a racing commission, tentatively set for late today, but postponed until tomorrow. Later, he is to be given a hearing before a United States commissioner on a charge of possessing narcotics.

BORN IN NANAIMO

NANAIMO, Jan. 23 (CP).—Harry Cooper, horse owner and trainer barred from Florida racetracks today by the Florida Racing Commission, was born in Nanaimo. His father was Rex Cooper, at one time well-known in British Columbia as a horse trainer, but who left here about ten years ago to reside in the United States.

Harry Cooper and two of his brothers became jockeys, getting their start on British Columbia tracks, and later going to Eastern and United States tracks. One brother was killed when his mount fell on a Montreal track several years ago.

Never Too Old—Members of the St. Petersburg, Fla., Three-Quarter Century Club even go in for boxing. This proves it.

Important Senior "B" Cage Game Scheduled at High Gym Tonight

Lake Hill's fast travelling cage squad will attempt to overtake the leading Colonist quintette in the race for the men's senior "B" honors of the City Basketball League tonight, at the High School gymnasium. In the first game, Pantorium will battle Dad's Cookies, and Dealats will tangle with Regents in the first of a two-game series for the boys' intermediate "B" title. Tommy Macedo will handle the whistle, and the opener will start at 7:30 o'clock.

With the transfer of Ralph Michell from Slingers to the Hill squad, the suburbanites have added more scoring punch. Michell will have to be watched closely by his check. Lake Hill already boasts of a win over the morning newspaper crew, and another decision will put them on even terms in the standings. Coach Doc Sturdy has his Colonist cagers in fine shape, and hopes to take a stranglehold on the championship by downing the second place aggregation.

WESTS TO WORK OUT

A workout of the Victoria West first and second football teams will be held in their clubrooms, tonight, at 8 o'clock. A full turnout of players is requested.

ANDERSON TO QUIT HOCKEY

CALGARY, Jan. 23 (CP).—After more than a decade in hockey, Ernie Anderson, diminutive right winger who started his ice career with the famous Selkirk fishermen in Manitoba, has decided to hang up his skates.

With the Calgary Tigers of the Northwestern Hockey League this season, "little Ernie" made known today he is through for the season and perhaps for all time. He refused to say definitely.

He is a veteran of Western professional leagues. He played with the Regina Caps, Edmonton Eskimos and the Calgary Tigers, in the old Western Canada League, and then with the Minneapolis Millers and Duluth Hornets, now members of the Central American League. He has also performed on Seattle ice as a member of the Mets squad.

SCHMELING READY FOR MAX BAER

German Heavyweight Signs for Return Bout With Californian

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP).—The signature of Max Baer, the prize ring's song and dance man, was all that was needed tonight to give Los Angeles one of fistiania's plums, a return bout between the big Californian and Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion.

Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter, popped into town today and shortly thereafter popped out again, bound for Baltimore and a conference with Baer, armed with Schmeling's signature on a contract calling for a twelve-round match in the Olympic Stadium in April.

If Baer, now doing a turn in vaudeville in Baltimore, agrees to terms, the match will be staged at a date to be decided upon later, with a part of the profits turned over to a California milk fund charity. Daro predicted the bout would draw $250,000 in gate receipts in Los Angeles.

WANTS BIG GUARANTEE

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP).—Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, said Baer would sign a contract to meet Max Schmeling in Los Angeles, "if they will guarantee us as much as they got in New York last Summer."

He said Schmeling received approximately $75,000 for that bout, which Baer won, and that he would be unwilling to take less.

REFEREE SPOILS STRATEGIC MOVE

Master-Minding of Irvin Misfires When Official Spoils Six Leafs Around Goal

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP).—Dick Irvin is convinced there's no use master-minding if referees are going to spoil it all. The Toronto Maple Leafs hockey coach told today of a bit of strategy that misfired in the Toronto-Detroit National Hockey League game Sunday night because, he contends, a whistle sounded when it should have been silent.

Red Wings were leading 3-2 in overtime and Irvin had five men camped around the Detroit net trying to tie the score. He noticed George Hainsworth, in the Leaf's goal, hadn't been bothered by a Detroit shot for some minutes and motioned him off the ice, putting Charlie Conacher into the play.

One of the referees saw six Leaf sweaters around the Detroit net and, concluding Leafs had seven men on the ice, blew his whistle. Irving claims that until play was halted the Wings were unaware the Toronto net was unguarded.

Toronto kept six men driving at Wilf Cude, but the Wings now jockeyed to get the rubber down the ice and finally Herbie Lewis succeeded, shooting from one end of the rink to the other and into the Toronto net. It was Wings' fourth goal and made their victory certain, besides doing things to Irvin's master-minding.

Charlie Conacher, league's leading marksman, led the Leafs in compiling a total of eighteen scoring points when he shot in two goals and aided three times. Harvey Jackson was close behind with three goals and one assist. The other member of the famous kid line, Joe Primeau, scored once and passed for two more markers. Blair and cotton scored Leaf's others.

CANADIENS TAME AMERKS

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP).—Montreal Canadiens put a temporary check to the rush of New York Americans towards a play-off berth in the Canadian section of the National Hockey League here tonight when they handed the Amerks a 6-2 defeat.

The win left Canadiens firmly entrenched in second position, four points ahead of their nearest rivals, Montreal Maroons.

Canadiens' forward line played brilliantly to take advantage of an edge in man power and four of their goals were rattled past Worters while an American was serving a penalty. Canadiens' younger generation divided honors in the scoring with the veterans, Riley notching a goal and Mondou two, while Joliat, Gagnon and Bourgeault each tallied once.

Martin and E. Burke notched for Amerks.

First Period—1, Americans, Martin (Himes-McVeigh), 4:31; 2, Canadiens, Gagnon (G. Mantha), 14:02; 3, Canadiens, Joliat (S. Mantha), 14:30. Penalties: Himes.

RANGERS STOP SENATORS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — Rangers' five "originals," who came to New York when the club was organized, took leading roles tonight, as the blue shirts celebrated their 400th game with a 5-2 victory over Ottawa Senators. By winning, Rangers held a tie with Detroit for first place in the National Hockey League's American division, while keeping Ottawa at the bottom of the Canadian section.

Bill Cook and Frank Boucher who, with Bun Cook, form the Rangers' first line now, as they did in 1926, shared the scoring honors in the fast, loosely played game. Boucher added four points to his big total, with two goals and two assists. Bill Cook sank two tallies sixteen seconds apart, to put the game on ice in the third period, when Albert Leduc was in the penalty box, and assisted in one of Boucher's tallies. A couple of newcomers did the rest. Vic Ripley scored the goal that put New York ahead in the second frame, and Cecil Dillon collected three assists.

The other veterans of eight seasons, Murray Murdoch, Bun Cook and Ching Johnson, did their usual steady work, but Manager Lester Patrick and Trainer Harry Westerby, who complete the veterans, left the bench only to join the ceremonies after the first period.

Desse Roche scored both Ottawa tallies.

Summary

First Period—1, Rangers, Boucher, 4:10; 2, Ottawa, D. Roche, 16:42. Penalties: F. Cook, 2; Voss, Howe.

WINGS TAKE BRUINS

BOSTON, Jan. 23 (AP). — The high-flying Detroit Red Wings remained on even terms with New York Rangers, with whom they share the American division lead, by killing off Boston Bruins' desperate closing attack for a 3-1 victory, tonight, before 7,000 at Boston Garden.

The homesters, playing their last game without the much-needed services of Eddie Shore, their suspended defence star, were outskated and outplayed until the third period. Cooney Weiland, former Bruin, slapped home the Wings' initial tally in the first period, and late in the second frame combined with Herb Lewis, who accounted for the second and third counters. Lewis' second goal, with only two seconds to go, was fired into an empty cage.

Bruins scored after five minutes of third-period play, Nels Stewart from Joe Lamb.

Summary

Second Period—2, Detroit, Lewis (Weiland), 12:35.

Third Period—3, Boston, Stewart (Lamb), 5:09; 4, Detroit, Lewis, 19:58. Penalties: Stewart, Smith.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

In a somewhat rough but superlatively exciting basketball match, the senior North Ward squad fell before the James Bays, last night, at the Assembly Hall. When it was announced that the teams were deadlocked at the end of full time, it was agreed to play ten minutes overtime, five minutes each way. The Bays ran in five points, while they held the Wards scoreless, thus making the final count 24-19. Frank Smith, who refereed, had trouble from the start in controlling the game. Being much heavier than the Wards, the J.B.A.A. lads continually roughed it. The Wards retaliated and at times, several fights nearly got under way, although none actually took place. A field basket and three foul shots gave the rowing club victory in the extra play. Teams were as follows: North Ward—Brynjolfson, Jimmy Dekers (2), Cousins (3), A. Dakers (6), Joe Dakers (8). J.B.A.A.—Hughes, Finlayson (4), T. Peden (14), R. Peden (6), Clarke.

Today, for the fourth time within a few months, Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, will take the track for a race of twenty-six miles. His opponent will be Alfred Shrubb, England's best. The contest will be held in New York over the same oval that saw the struggle and the defeat of Hayes, the nominal winner of the Olympic event, by Dorando Pietri, the plucky Italian, and that was later the scene of the Italian's undoing when he was confronted by the lanky Indian. Great interest is aroused over the race and late betting favors the Canadian.

Members of the Beacon Hill Rugby Club will hold another workout this afternoon at the Hill at 3:30 o'clock. The team is rapidly developing young players, and a full attendance is desired at the training session. The following are asked to be on hand: A. Clark, J. Clay, D. Taylor, M. Scott, N. Cruickshanks, E. Tartley, P. Fraser, A. Mulcahy, B. Bendrodt, M. Gordon, G. Scott, L. Clark, J. Belford and H. Buckman.

Vancouver is still leading the International Grass Hockey League, according to the official standings released yesterday, with two victories and a like number of defeats. Victoria is holding down second place with a win and a setback, while the Garrison is third and Seattle is occupying the cellar position. The next match will bring together the Garrison and Victoria at Oak Bay Park, February 3, and then Vancouver will come over here to meet Victoria.

Victoria United Football Club Will Seek Intercity Honors

FORMATION of the Victoria United Club to compete in the newly-formed Intercity League was announced yesterday by local soccer officials. Two weeks ago at a meeting held here by the British Columbia Football Commission, Victoria was invited to play in the league. The invitation was accepted and the entry sent to the Mainland yesterday. First game of intercity competition for Victoria is expected to take place here on February 10. Officers of the club will be announced later. Nanaimo, Royals, North Shore, St. Saviours, Kerrisdale and St. Andrews are the other teams in the league.

Oarsmen to Battle Canadian Scottish In Feature Fixture

Senior Rugby Clubs Will Clash at Oak Bay Park—Four Other Games Booked—McKechnie Cup Matches Set—Ketchen Gives Meeting Report

J.B.A.A., last year's winners of the Barnard Cup, emblematic of the senior city championship, will battle it out with the Canadian Scottish in the main attraction on Saturday's programme. The other senior league match will bring together Wanderers and Navy, while one game is carded in the senior "B" division, and two in the intermediate section. Grounds for the games were set at yesterday's meeting of the Victoria union.

The Rowing Club and Highlanders will meet at Oak Bay "A" grounds, and the Wanderers will journey to the Admiral's Road pitch to take on the sailors. Garrison "Tommies" and Garrison, undefeated leaders, will face each other in the "B" tussle, at Work Point Barracks. J.B.A.A. and Wanderers hook up in the intermediate league at Oak Bay "B," and 5th Brigade and Canadian Scottish are scheduled for the Canteen grounds. All matches will start a. 2:45 o'clock.

GIVES REPORT

H. J. Ketchen, secretary of the provincial body, attended and gave a detailed report on the meeting held in Vancouver over the week-end by the British Columbia union. He gave a financial statement on the Stanford-California tour, which showed a loss of approximately $600. After hearing an itemized account of expenditures, local delegates decided to appoint a committee of four to look into the matter and lodge a protest with Vancouver over the reckless way the Mainland union spent money in putting over the tour.

President Russell Ker, Arthur Cox, Carew Martin, and Fred Cabeldu were appointed to meet the Vancouver Union in the near future. Ketchen also pointed out that the Vancouver union promised to put up $450 for the tour, but only came through with $200. Victoria put up $310 and Varsity $240, which may be returned in full after expenses are pooled after the tour down South early in March.

The next McKechnie Cup fixture is slated for February 3, at Brockton Point, when Varsity and Vancouver tangle, and the following week, on February 10, Varsity journeys to meet Victoria at the Royal Athletic Park. On February 24, Varsity clashes with Vancouver again, and then Victoria visits Vancouver, on March 30, in the final game of the series. The Rounsfel Cup final will take place in Vancouver, March 24, between North Shore All-Blacks and the local senior winners.

KETCHEN CHOSEN

Ketchen was named manager of the British Columbia team to invade California, and Jim Scott was nominated as coach, but declined to accept the position. A coach will be appointed later, Ketchen told the meeting. A selection committee of Bob Travis, Victoria; Captain Dobbie, Vancouver, and Ken Mercer, Varsity, will name the team to travel. It is understood that eight players will be chosen from Vancouver and Victoria, and four from Varsity. Athletes who played Canadian Rugby until the season was over and then transferred their affections to the English code will not be allowed to make the journey South.

President Ker announced that the Barnard Cup series would finish by February 24, that is if no play-off was necessary between the first and second-half winners. If that occurs, the play-off will be held on March 17.

HORNSBY LOOKS FOR TIGHT RACE

Brown's Pilot Says American League Balanced Better Now Than in Years

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 23 (AP).—A spirited American Baseball League pennant race, with no super-club to mar the fun, is envisioned by Vice-President L. C. McEvoy and Manager Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis Browns.

"It looks to me," said Hornsby today, "that the league has better balance than for years."

"Yes," agreed McEvoy, "we've suffered from super-clubs for the last six or seven years. One or two teams just too good for the rest. I don't see any super-teams this year."

"None of them looks super to me, either," commented the rajah, who came over from the National League to manage the Browns near the end of the last compaign, after Bill Killifer had been deposed. "Boston, St. Louis and Detroit especially have added strength, but there isn't a club that couldn't stand improvement.

"How'll they finish? I'm not trying to figure that out, but the Browns won't finish last this year," said Hornsby. "I'll let the rest of them worry about where they'll finish."

BARNEY ROSS AND PETROLLE MEET TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP).—The twisted-nosed old man in the Indian blanket, "Uncle Will" Petrolle, from Duluth and Fargo, trundles his veteran frame into action again, tomorrow night, against a youngster brimming with youth and health, Barney Ross, of Chicago, champion of all the lightweights.

That's come to be the traditional way of describing Blanket Bill until he climbs those fighting steps, as he does tomorrow night, in the Bronx Coliseum, for his ten-round return engagement with Ross.

Shortly thereafter you get very serious in your attitude toward the twenty-nine-year-old warrior. For, any moment from the first bell on, he's liable to plant in your lap any foolhardy youngster who believes what he reads in the papers.

Ross is one of those who can't be fooled by Petrolle's liking for the old man role and an appearance that belies the fact that he still is one of the ceagiest, huskiest punching prize fighters in the 140-pound bracket. On the basis of past performance, Ross is a 7-to-5 favorite with a match that promises something of a miracle in New York's present-day boxing—a sell out.

Canadians Enter Big Indoor Track And Field Meet

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (CP).—Canada will be represented by two of its outstanding runners at the Millrose track and field meeting, in Madison Square Garden, February 3. Bert Pearson, Hamilton's nineteen-year-old holder of the Dominion 100 and 220 title for the last two years, has entered the sixty-yard dash. He will oppose Ralph Metcalfe, the Marquette flyer; Emmett Topping, New Orleans, and thirteen others.

Fred Shaver, of Hamilton, the Canadian inter-collegiate quarter and half-mile champion, has entered the 880-yard special against an all-star field, including Ned Turner, 1933 winner, to whom Shaver ran second.

McInnes Selected Manager of Local "Rep" Rugby Team

BOB McInnes, popular manager and coach of the J.B.A.A. fifteen, present Barnard Cup holders, was chosen manager of the Victoria "rep" Rugby squad, which will journey to Vancouver to play Varsity on February 10, at yesterday's meeting of the local union. McInnes has been directing teams in the city for many years and his valuable knowledge of the game is expected to be a great help to the locals when they take field against the University ruggers.

VINES, TILDEN ONLY ON TOUR

No Championship at Stake in Current Series Between Professional Players

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP).—The current Bill Tilden-Ellsworth Vines tour has no sanction of a "championship" series from the National Professional Tennis Association, J. P. Allen, secretary of the organization, explained today as a result of conflicting developments.

Several protests were received from foreign professionals, including Hans Musslein, of Germany, when the Tilden-Vines tour went on the road, billed as being for the "world professional championship." Nothing was done about this, Allen said, for the simple reason that Tilden's troupe is a private enterprise and in no way connected with the National Association.

"Tilden holds the National indoor professional title, won at the tournament this Winter in Philadelphia," said Allen. "Nusslein is the world outdoor pro title holder, having won the championship tournament in Europe last Summer. Neither of these titles can be won or lost, except in the annual tournaments."

My Theories on Golf

Choosing the Proper Wood Club for the Shot—High Scorer Should Drive With Number Two

—By BOBBY JONES—

Without overstepping the bounds of a proper conservatism, it is possible to say that a good part of the average golfers difficulty comes from the understandable desire and effort to do more than he can. And nowhere is this more noticeable than in his use of the wood clubs through the green. Time after time he may be seen diving into formidable rough with a spoon in his hand, or hauling out a powerful brassie to dig a ball out of a cuppy lie—shots that a golfer of greater skill and experience would not think of trying. The determination to get length at any cost, to use the strongest club possible, more often than not leads him to exceed his limit. Certainly the average of his results would be greatly improved if he would make a practice of always using a club with which he could be sure of getting the ball up.

BOBBY JONES

At least part of the trouble comes from a confused idea of the relation between the individual clubs of the present-day four-club set of woods and those of the old driver-brassie-spoon combination. The inexperienced player is always more likely to choose a club because of the number on it than because of what he can do with it.

DRIVE WITH NUMBER TWO

To be perfectly frank, except for the exceptional case of the man who hits his long shots moderately well and with a fair amount of power, but fritters away strokes around the greens, the player who is above the eighty-five to ninety class has little need for the driver, or number one, of the four-club set. In almost every instance, players of this class have trouble getting the ball up, even from the tee, and they would be wise to drive with the number two, play their long fairway shots from good lies with the number three, and reserve the number four for shots of somewhat shorter range or from tight, unfavorable lies.

It must be understood that the conventional four-club set covers approximately the same range of loft as did the conventional three-club set. It is merely divided among four clubs instead of three in order better to meet the demands of the more accomplished players. Even before this arrangement was made available in matched sets, most of the pros and better amateurs were using four wood clubs. Some called the additional intermediate club a driving brassie; others inserted it lower down and named it a brassie-spoon. My own set was made up of a driver, a brassie of somewhat less than conventional loft, a spoon with the same characteristic, and a lofted spoon. I called these last two "big spoon" and "little spoon" respectively.

USES OF FOUR-CLUB SET

This, and similar sets put together by other players, were substantially the same as the modern four-club matched set. The brassie, being a bit more powerful than the conventional brassie of that time, was useful in stretching out to reach the long holes in two, when a good lie made this ambition appear reasonable. The big spoon could get good length from less favorable lies, and the little spoon could plant a steep shot upon a green from the shorter ranges. The big spoon, corresponding to the more recent number three wood, could get the ball up more safely and easily, and had very nearly as much range as the ordinary brassie.

It is not possible, of course, to tell a person just what he can or cannot do with a particular club. This he must find out for himself. But he might remember that the number three of the average set of today has about as much right to be called a brassie as the number two, and is often a safer club to use. When length is desired it is, of course, best to use a powerful club, but one should always be sure that the club selected is one which will get the ball up easily.

GARRISON TO BATTLE NAVY AT THE HILL

Mid-Week Game Switched From Barracks—Two Other Fixtures

Garrison, undefeated eleven, and the Navy will meet in the feature game on this afternoon's programme in the Pendray Cup race in the Wednesday Football League, on the upper Beacon Hill Park grounds. The match was scheduled to take place at Work Point Barracks, but at the request of Garrison's manager it has been switched on account of the poor condition of the pitch. Hudson's Bay will clash with James Bay Liberals at lower Beacon Hill, and Spencer's and Maccabees will battle for the points at Heywood Avenue. All games will commence at 2:30 o'clock.

Navy, defending cuupholders, were held to a 2-2 deadlock by the Liberals, while the Garrison blanked the Maccabees, 6-0, for their second straight win in the series for the league championship, and their tenth consecutive since the mid-week league started. The Tommies will be favored to take the sailors, who are handicapped with some of their players away on the boats.

THE TEAMS

Spencer's—McMillan, Cann, Munroe, D. Bradley, Chapman, L. Bradley, Wilson, Clarke, Luxton, McKinnon and Bissell.

Liberals — Gibson, Miller, Roskamp, Kelman, N. McBride, A. McBride, Sage, Rice, Obee, Thame, Mercer, Crawford, Eastwood and Bourne. Players to meet at park at 2:15 o'clock.

NANAIMO XI GAINS DRAW

Up-Islanders Come From Behind to Secure Tie With Kerrisdale

NANAIMO, Jan. 23.—In an exhibition game here, Sunday, Nanaimo City and Kerrisdale football teams played a 4-4 draw. Up until three minutes from full time, Kerrisdale led by two goals. Bud Sandland, outside left for Nanaimo, scored, and one minute later repeated, making it a draw. During the first half the visitors had it all over the locals, but with the change-over, Nanaimo sent on four veterans, George Kulai, Sandy Strang, Krall and Waugh, replacing Heaton, Jackson, Green and Peffers. A little later they sent on Bud Sandland to replace J. Kulai. The score was then 3-1 for Kerrisdale.

Rothweiller, Kerrisdale's outside left, furnished much amusement for the fans and played good football for his team, scoring three of their four goals. He registered the first half a minute after play started. Two minutes later Wilkinson scored for Kerries, and they were 2 up.

McGregor, for Nanaimo, scored next. With twenty minutes gone, Rothweiller forced a corner, and was awarded the kick. He skimmed the upright, and Stone, in goal for Nanaimo, allowed the ball to slip through his hands into the net for the third goal for Kerrisdale, the half ending 3-1 for the visitors.

TWO QUICK GOALS

Rothweiller repeated his snappy play of the start of the game when he secured half a minute from the kick-off of the second period, passed Boyd, and then tricked English for a shot at goal, which registered. With the score 4-1, Nanaimo took charge, and in a rush on goal Platt fouled in the penalty area. The spot kick was converted by George Gray. Though Nanaimo pressed continuously, only three minutes were left when Sandland got through twice for his sensational goals and tied the score.

Great Revival In Sport of Kings In Old Country Noted

Increased Popularity, Record of Gordon Richards, King's Successes and Outstanding Horse Made 1933 Great Year for Racing

LONDON, Jan. 23 (CP).—Looking back on the years of the British turf there are many aspects of considerable cheer, most important being the increased popularity of the "sport of kings."

There was evidence on every side of recovery fom the setback the turf received from the depression. The attendances, prices realized at the Doncaster sales, and totalizator betting receipts all showed the turf is in a more healthy position than for some years.

The season will be revealed as Gordon Richards' year. It was not only the racing world which was interested in the achievements of this brilliant jockey, for as soon as he appeared to hold a chance of eclipsing Fred Archer's record of 246 winners in 1885, the spotlight of publicity began to shine upon him, and in streets, trains, buses and trams, his name and doings were a continual topic of conversation.

His most amazing achievement was to ride eleven winners in twelve races at the Chepstow meeting in October, which included "going right through the card" on the first day—a performance which may never be repeated. He passed Archer's total at Liverpool on November 8 amid most enthusiastic scenes, and wound up with a total of 259 winners.

HYPERION'S WINS

A beautifully-moulded little colt, Hyperion, brought further fame to the black and white colors of Lord Derby when he pulverized his opponents in the Derby, and three months later repeated the performance in the St. Leger. This was only the third race in its long history that a Lord Derby had won the race named after his ancestor.

Hyperion must be acclaimed as a horse well above the average Derby winner. He is only the third horse to have won these two classics during the post-war period. Because of the striking difference in the conformation of the Epsom and Doncaster courses, a horse has to be a really good one to beat the best of his age in both races. Hyperion ran on four occasions and won each time.

It was a pity he was not entered for the Two Thousand Guineas, for, by the manner in which he has dominated the three-year-old situation, it seems certain that he would have won that race, and thus achieved the rarely-accomplished feat of the "Triple Crown."

Lord Glanely will be looked forward to next season with high hopes, because in Colombo he owns a two-year-old colt whose performances are overshadowed only by those of Hyperion. Purchased at the Doncaster sales as a yearling for 510 guineas, Colombo has won seven races to the value of £17,130, and goes into Winter quarters unbeaten. Some of his victories have shown him possessed of exceptional merit, and the result is that he is a warm favorite for next year's Derby.

That racing is recovering from the setback caused by economic depression is suggested by the fact that we do not hear of owners retiring or curtailing their interests, a situation which was prevalent a year or two back.

KING'S HORSES MADE GOOD

His Majesty has enjoyed one of the best years he has ever known as an owner, having won ten races. His most successful horse was Limelight, which won three important races—the Hardwicks Stakes at Ascot, the Newbury Spring Cup, and the Duke of York Handicap at Kempton Park. Limelight was retired to the stud as one of the best middle-distance handicappers in the country.

Foxearth won three races, all at Newmarket, in the Royal colors, and His Majesty's other winner was The Abbot, who won three times and dead-heated for another race.

Thanks mainly to Hyperion, Lord Derby is the chief winning owner. In all he has won £27,619. Of the trainers, Fred Darling has achieved most success in the matter of stake money, and his total of £44,279 is a fine tribute to his skill, in view of the fact that he has not won a classic race.

The year has been punctuated with a series of deaths, several of which were of an extremely sad nature. There was the death of the Newmarket trainer, Fred Leader, and his wife, who were killed in a motoring accident when they were returning from Ascot. Then Cyril Buckham met with a similar untimely end. This young jockey had not been long in England, but had established himself as a high-class rider.

The unusually skilled amateur rider, Alec Cottrill, died at the age of 23, following a fall during a race at Lewes in August. He was the undisputed leader amongst amateur riders on the flat, and, being assistant to Hon. G. Lambton at Newmarket, had the promise of a bright career.

UNPOPULAR VERDICT AWARDED WALLACE IN FRANKIE KLICK BOUT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 23 (AP)—Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland got the nod from Referee Tommy Mulgrew in a free slugging affair with Frankie Klick, of San Francisco, at Public Hall last night, after ten fast rounds, in which the recent conqueror of Kid Chocolate shook the Clevelander twice with blows that looked good for victory. Klick weighed 132 1-2, Wallace 131 1-2.

To the spectators it appeared the Ohioan traveled second to the Coast fighter over the larger part of the route. The slim crowd of 1,883 booed when Mulgrew raised Wallace's arm.

In his term, he generally is given credit for development of such players as Chuck Klein, last year's league batting champion; Virgil Davis, Don Hurst, Ed Schulmerich and Lefty O'Doul.

Stocks Advance In Late Rally at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — Overcoming early hesitancy, stocks rallied with some spirit in the last hour today, and activity quickened as the advance was resumed.

The strongest demonstrations were confined to a few groups, including steels, wirecrafts and miscellaneous specialties; but late buying was well distributed, and the market, on the average, closed with a net gain of slightly more than a point. Prime bonds were firmer.

Rails were quiet, but firm.

Strength in "heavy" industrials was especially noticeable in General Motors, which crossed 38 for a gain of more than a point.

Chemical stocks effervesced strongly, Allied rising 3 1-4, and Dupont 2 1-2. Early demand for metals was partly inspired by rumors that 9-cent copper was in prospect. Foreign buying, brokers reported, was being received in larger volume.

WHEAT MOVES UPWARD AGAIN

Futures Advance Fractions at Winnipeg on Strength of Chicago Gains

WINNIPEG, Jan. 23 (CP). — Strength at Chicago, backed by scattered local purchases, boosted wheat prices for net gains of 1-4 to 3-8 cent on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

May wheat closed at 68 5-8, and July at 69 5-8 cents. Only a handful of export business was traced to the pit, and operations were made up largely of mixed local trade. Light offerings aided in holding prices at the high points. Liverpool prices were fractionally off at the close.

Only a scattered business was worked in cash grains, and scarcely any more activity occurred in the coarse grains pit, where prices ruled steady throughout.

French Senators Warns Countrymen to Watch Pacific and German Situations

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP).—A storm "is growing over the Far East, and is closely connected with Berlin," Henry Berenger, president of the Foreign Affairs committee of the French Senate, said yesterday, in a newspaper article.

"What is happening in Japan, China, Russia and the United States," he wrote, "has certain connections with what is happening in Germany and Eastern Europe." He warned Frenchmen to "keep their eyes on the Pacific," and maintained that "the massive rearmament in Germany is not solely a Franco - German problem, nor a European problem, but an international one."

Meanwhile, authoritative French quarters expressed the conviction that Germany was trying to become the strongest armed power in Europe, and that "Chancellor Hitler's coldness to French arms proposals" may stiffen the French stand on disarmament since "Germany may be unwilling to compromise."

COMMITTEE TO CANVASS CITY

Seeking Financial Aid for Nanaimo Hospital—Board Re-elected

NANAIMO, Jan. 23.—Five members of the board of directors of Nanaimo Hospital, H. McRae, H. Jones, P. Cowman, R. T. Wilson and A. Leighton, were re-elected at the annual meeting of the hospital association, tonight. R. T. Wilson presided. Hon. George Pearson, retiring president, was elected an honorary president, following a tribute paid him for services given as president previous to becoming a Cabinet minister.

The financial statement showed the hospital had a deficit of approximately $1,200 last year, and that Nanaimo branch of the Canadian Red Cross had given the board $221, in December, to furnish the Gibson-Pearson Memorial Ward for returned soldiers.

The meeting appointed a committee, of which Canon H. V. Hitchcox was made chairman, to canvass the city and districts for members for the hospital treatment fund at a regular monthly fee, to help the institution meet its financial difficulties. Votes of thanks were passed to societies which gave financial assistance.

PARISHIONERS AT CHEMAINUS MEET

Satisfactory Reports of Year's Church Work Received—Committee Chosen

CHEMAINUS, Jan. 23.—At the annual meeting of the parishioners of Saint Michael's and All Angels' Church, the vicar, Rev. E. Robathan, opening with prayer, and Mr. Inglis was chosen as secretary for the meeting. Reports of the vicar, people's warden, women's auxiliary and Sunday school for the year were read and adopted.

Mr. Mantle, in reporting on the work done by the Sunday school, stressed the fact that the children had not only given up their picnic and Christmas awards for the restoration fund, but had also made several gifts during the year to the local church funds, as well as one to the Christmas cheer fund of the municipality.

Mrs. Porter, W.A. president, commented on an increased average attendance at meetings, the visits of Lady Lake and other members of the W.A. board, and also the fact that, while they had made progress, an unpaid balance due on the Parish Hall, had to be carried over, with this year's apportionments.

The vicar urged for a more united response to the questionnaire and a larger attendance of parents at the service for children and parents once a month, also for a greater interest among the men. In this connection the urgent need for another male Sunday school teacher was cited. Nominations resulted in Kenneth Rare being chosen as people's warden, the vicar nominating W. Knight as vicar's warden.

The church committee this year was reduced, by motion, to six members, Mr. Stubbs, Mrs. Koch, Mrs. Porter, Mr. Willmott, Mr. Rice and Mr. Humphrey, with envelope secretary, Mr. Englis. Delegates to diocesan annual meeting were Messrs. Englis and T. Anketell Jones, and to the ruriDecanal meeting, William Knight K. Rare and Mrs. Knight.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring officers and to the Women's Auxiliary for their splendid support. Following the close of the business meeting a social in charge of Mr. Humphrey took place, refreshments being served by the lady members of the church committee, assisted by the W.A.

MALAHAT BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Jan. 23.—The annual meeting of the Malahat Board of Trade was held on Friday, in the S.L.A.A. Hall. A comprehensive report of the year's activities, read by William Mudge, president, showed much useful work had been accomplished. Secretary S. J. Heald reported a gain of eight new members, and the financial statement showed a balanced budget.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, William Mudge (re-elected); vice-president, H. E. Hawking; secretary-treasurer, S. J. Heald (re-elected); executive council, F. T. Elford, Douglas Elford, Colonel F. T. Oldham, F. M. Gannon, E. M. Walbank, G. A. Cheeke, L. A. Malleson, Dennis Mason Hurley, Dr. George More, A. L. Knee, J. H. Butler, T. C. Mason, F. L. Watson, Commander P. A. A. Leask and E. C. Ball.

PARISH MEETING HELD AT CROFTON

Westholme (with Crofton) Parish held the annual parish and vestry meeting at Crofton Hall, with a good attendance of members. Rev. E. Robathan opened the meeting with prayer. L. C. Foster was elected secretary for the meeting. The vicar, in his report of work done in the parish during the year, especially mentioned Mrs. L. F. Solly's work with the children of Westholme, it being entirely due to her supervision and enthusiasm that a fortnightly Sunday school is now being held, Mrs. Knight, of Somenos, and Miss Wilmurt assisting as teachers. Miss Margaret Dyke is doing equally good work with the Sunday school at Crofton. Thanks were also tendered the wardens, Westholme W.A. and Crofton Ladies' Sewing Circle for their valuable work.

L. C. Foster presented the financial statement for the year, which showed a debit balance of $20 after all outstanding accounts had been met. T. F. Solly was appointed vicar's warden, and L. C. Foster people's warden. The church committee for the year will be composed of Mrs. D. Groves, Miss B. P. Foster, G. Highmore, C. W. Dunne and E. C. Hawkins, together with the president of the W.A., Mrs. J. B. Bailey. Representatives of the synod, Captain Groves and L. C. Foster, and substitutes, G. Highmore and Mrs. E. C. Hawkins; ruridecanal representatives, Miss B. P. Foster, Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. L. F. Solly, with substitutes, Mrs. Dee and Mrs. G. Elliott; auditor, C. W. Dunne.

ASSAULT LEADS TO PRISON TERM

NANAIMO, Jan. 23.—John Menghini, seventy years of age, and a resident of Extension, as the aftermath of a drinking party on December 26 last, sustained five broken ribs, a dislocated elbow and a black eye, according to testimony given in court, here, today, before Judge C. H. Barker. James Davis, thirty, was the assailant, and was given thirty days with hard labor, without the option of a fine, at the conclusion of the trial.

Following a dispute in the home of Menghini, Davis was ordered out of the house. He claimed Menghini fired a shot at him, and that in self-defence he hit him once. Menghini swore Davis knocked him unconscious and attacked him three times while he was making his way to the house of a friend. Menghini was only discharged from hospital on Saturday last as the result of his injuries.

That Body of Yours

HOW TO LIVE LONG

If you are poor, you may have an idea that if you were rich you would be sure to live longer.

If you are of the middle class you may also think you'd live longer if you were wealthy.

What do the records show?

He sent cards to ten thousand people who are over eighty years of age throughout the country in order to have them record the climate, their circumstances in life, manner of living, hygiene, and other matters concerning themselves and their family histories.

The places where the aged are more numerous in proportion to the whole population are listed in the following order: (1) a seaside village; (2) a village on an island near the mainland; (3) a town near the sea; (4) a village on a plateau or high level spot; (5) a village in a level country; (6) a village among the hills; (7) a village in an isolated island (away from the mainland); (8) a town in a level country; (9) a town on a plateau; (10) cities; (11) larger cities.

The majority of these aged people had long-lived grandparents, parents and brothers and sisters.

The majority proved to be the oldest son or daughter, which is a different finding than that which most physicians have heretofore believed.

The majority were agricultural workers; few followed industry. Government officials seldom were long-lived, which is also different to what most of us have believed, as we have thought that a steady government job would prolong life.

Most of these aged people go to bed early and rise late. They generally have led a quiet life. They are not particular what they eat. The aged mostly have a normal constitution, but some are overweight and some are slender. A tall man lives long, but a short man does not.

From the above information it would seem that if we are to live long we should live in the country or on a plateau, and should be calm in mind.

Further, as most of these aged people were of the middle class, to live long, our standard of living should be that of the middle class. Now where we live is not always one's to choose, but in most cases how we live—that is, as to food, work, and rest—is under our control.

BERI-BERI

Sir,—With reference to the cases of beri-beri, which have appeared on the West Coast of the Island, it may be of interest to know that in Northern Brazil there are two kinds of beri-beri prevalent, known respectively as "creeping" and "galloping."

The first, as the name implies, being gradual, commences in the lower extremities and works upward to the vital organs, with fatal results.

The other is greatly dreaded by the natives and is frequently fatal within forty-eight hours.

In that region the only known remedy for either diseases was a short sea voyage, without any other treatment. When the voyage was taken early in the development, complete cure generally resulted.

A CRITIC OF SHAKESPEARE

Sir,—In your Sunday editorial, you quote Hamilton Wright Mabie as saying for your readers of 1934 that "first and foremost" among the books a man should read are the Bible, Homer, Dante, Shakespeare and Goethe. He says that these are books a man "must read if he aspires to the ripest culture." Now, let's be honest. Are they?

It perhaps depends upon what is meant by "ripest." The deceits and adulteries of which Homer sings so interminably are ripe almost to the point of rottenness. But Homer cannot make even these things interesting. As T. E. Shaw (his latest translator), points out, Homer is dull and long-winded, poor both in matter and form.

As for Dante; who reads him today? Who, indeed, can read him? During the last fifty years the conceptions by which men interpret experience have altered Dante's "Divine Comedy" out of all recognition. The whole thing needs to be decoded into terms we understand. But is it worth it? One might as well try to decode the Koran into the terms of modern thought.

As for Shakespeare, he is like Karl Marx—even his best friends don't read him. Admittedly, the word-music of certain passages are very grand, but like most eloquence they will not stand criticism. Now, let's be honest. Shakespeare was no thinker, and Bernard Shaw was right when he told us to wake up to "the emptiness of Shakespeare's philosophy; to the superficiality and second-handedness of his morality; to his weakness and incoherence as a thinker; to his snobbery, his vulgar prejudices, his ignorance, and his disqualifications of all sorts for the philosophic eminence claimed for him."

Goethe is best known as the author of "Faust." It is a laborious and poetic version of the yarn about a man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for youth, and then got himself into a mess by seducing a young woman—just the sort of a story necessary to turn an intelligent man of today into one of the "ripest culture." Is it? Let's be honest.

If a man wishes a broad and up-to-date view of the nature, origin and possible destiny of man, let him read "The Science of Life," by H. G. Wells, Julian Huxley and G. P. Wells. In place of a hypocritical reverence for Shakespeare, I suggest the actual reading of the plays of Bernard Shaw. Those who must read mythology could spend their time better in reading Sir James Frazer's "Golden Bough," than Homer. And for those who hanker after cosmologies, there is Durant's "Story of Philosophy," which I think contains more elevating and profitable reading than Dante. For those who desire to refine themselves morally, I suggest they read Walter Lippmann's "A Preface to Morals."

Surely our duty is to steep ourselves in the best thought of our own age before indulging a dubious antiquarianism. Too many neglect that duty as it is, with the result (to paraphrase Havelock Ellis) that some of us find it tedious to live among so many who are centuries behind their times.

BOOK REVIEWS

Sir,—In turning to the magazine section of this morning's Colonist, I saw this heading: "Art, Drama, Screen, Opera, Music, Books." It is about the latter I would like to say a word. Art, meaning painting, I presume, has two articles; drama, the Passion Play; screen, too many to enumerate, Hollywood, needless to say, taking the lead; opera, one short item about operas in English; music, well, if we may call such high class artists as Bing Crosby, Russ Columbo and Rudy Vallee, musicians, there is certainly one article on music, but books, just one scanty notice on "Charles Dickens, His Life and Work," by Stephen Leacock.

There are many ardent book lovers in Victoria and it is really a hardship that when we are looking for some intelligent review of the recent books, we have to satisfy our souls with such very interesting matter as the following: "Frances Dee and her husband are happiest when out of doors, etc.," also that "D. Wieck has a real yen to emote opposite Gary Cooper," the latter is quite unintelligible to me. Please give us more reviews by Mrs. Angus.

Yours sincerely for a better "Book Page."

ENTERS FIFTY-THIRD YEAR OF SCHOOL WORK

NANAIMO, Jan. 23.—At the first meeting of the 1934 school board, here, tonight, John Shaw was again appointed chairman of the board. This is the beginning of Mr. Shaw's fifty-third consecutive year in public school work in the province, many of which were spent as a school teacher here.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Where to draw the neckline is a question you should have definitely settled in your mind. Briefly, it should be high in the front and low in the back.

There are exceptions and variations, of course, but your general trend is the above. This goes also for evening. For the most formal of occasions your ball gown may come so high in front as to touch your chin as you nod to friends, and such a gown may have no back whatever, the material sweeping across the throat, over the shoulders and either straight down over the shoulder-blades to the waist, or crossing very low at the end of the spinal column—or very near the end.

You may not like this line, and it isn't particularly happy for the boyishly flat-chested woman. Her business, therefore, is to crush the material to give bulk across the chest, and all is well, for her back is probably just as good as her slightly more corpulent sister.

For street costumes the neckline often comes up almost to the lobes of the ears, sometimes fastening at the nape of the neck, or falling into a curved line or V-shaped draping. You may have a very shallow V in front and a deeper but very narrow V in the back, which makes the decollete an idea rather than an actuality.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

PARIS (UP).—Important necklines for Spring offer an exceptional variety. The favorite, however, will probably be the bateau or boat-shape, due to the fact that it is flattering for most people and especially a boon to those whose necks are none too meaty.

This is in keeping with the high frontline drapery for day and evening clothes of the present. It will simply move the shoulder lines out an inch or two nearer the curve and the draping may incline toward a V—a la Vionnet—or come up higher for the bateau effect.

That vivacious young French actress, Renee Devillers, who is getting very much applause from her audiences in "Parlez-moi d'Amour" at the Theatre Michel, has a particular color and mood for all the things she does during the performance. For instance, she travels in navy blue, sips tea in beige marocain, takes her swim in a white topped bathing suit with bright red shorts; plays tennis in white with a royal blue bodice, and flirts outrageously in sky-blue satin. All of these particular costumes are made for her by Lucile Paray. From the above you will note the color preferences of at least one of France's smart young ladies. And many are her followers who choose somber shades for daytime, paler for afternoons and pastels for evening.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Boat-shaped necklines will be important for Spring.

EQUALIZATION PLAN WATCHED

Heavy Outflow of French Gold Expected When Fund Becomes Operative

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—The steps the United States Government will take to make the 60-cent dollar effective here when the gold bill is enacted aroused speculation today.

It was assumed an equalization fund would be established, or some form of stabilization put into effect.

Foreign exchange market estimates placed United States' gold purchases within the past eight days at £8,000,000 (approximately $40,000,000).

Despite such high dollar selling, the dollar-pound rate has shown considerable resistance because of the demand for funds to be repatriated in the United States, and buying by other sources.

MAY TAP RESERVES

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP).—The possibility that American gold buying in the London free market may soon begin to tap the gold reserves of the Bank of France is envisaged in Wall Street international banking quarters.

In fact, some foreign exchange experts see the last remnant of the old-fashioned gold-standard, as it exists in France and her financial satellites on the continent, seriously imperilled by the $2,000,000,000 American stabilization fund, soon to be created.

The only practical way the fund can keep the United States dollar from rising, it is believed, is through buying sterling, and converting the sterling into gold in the London free gold market. Holding sterling entails the danger of loss should sterling decline in terms of gold.

SOURCES OF GOLD

There are only two important sources of gold in the London market—newly-mined metal from South Africa and Canada, and shipments from the Bank of France. The Bank of France is the only important central bank which still maintains the old free gold standard, by standing ready to pay out gold freely as French paper money is presented for redemption.

Offerings of newly-mined gold in London are limited to a few million dollars worth a week, a relatively small item, in view of the huge potential flow of funds from London to New York. Therefore, if heavy American gold buying becomes necessary in London, the price there may be expected to command such a premium over the French gold franc that arbitragers will immediately buy francs, and convert them into gold in Paris, for shipment to London.

Concentrator on Floats Planned At Phillips Arm

Hercules Consolidated Considering Pontoon Mill to Treat Dorothea Morton Ores—Other Mines May Utilize Plant—Federal Starts Active Development at Thurlow and Sonora

PLANS are being made for the erection of a "floating concentrator" by the Hercules Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company and owners of the Dorotha Morton mine at Phillips Arm, it is rumored.

The concentrator, of 100 tons capacity, would be erected on two giant pontoon scows and driven by Diesel engines. Freighters would be able to pull alongside and load concentrates for shipment to the Tacoma Smelter and ores from the various other mines in the immediate vicinity, such as the Enid-Julie, Alexandria, Thurlow, Sonora and Blue Bell, could be treated at this central plant.

In the meantime, Federal Gold Mines, Ltd., of Vancouver, which recently took options on the Thurlow and Sonora properties, has commenced active development on the two properties.

On the former property, work is proceeding on the driving of a tunnel on the vein from tidewater. It is planned to ship ore from this tunnel to the Tacoma Smelter, owing to the favorable transportation rate available, rather than go to the expense of installing a mill.

The development plan calls for the driving of the tunnel from tidewater for 1,600 feet to intersect the downward continuation of an existing shaft. Sinking of a new shaft at the tidewater level is also planned. The vein on this property is exposed for a distance of two miles.

Less development has been done on the adjoining Sonora property by the previous owners, and C. P. Riel, managing director of the Federal Gold Mines, Ltd., stated that development for this project will not be decided upon until the old workings have been dewatered.

The Federal Gold Mines, Lt., is capitalized at 1,500,000 shares at $1 par value. Shares issued for properties total 300,000, and according to Mr. Riel, arrangements have been completed with Eastern interests to take up 1,000,000 shares at twenty-five cents, to finance development.

The Federal has taken working options on the Thurlow and Sonora properties, by which it undertakes to develop the properties to production, being reimbursed out of first profits for all expenditures, after which, profits would be divided in the proportion of 60 per cent to the Federal and 40 per cent to the original companies. In this way, the Federal acquires a 60 per cent interest in each of the companies in return for undertaking development of them.

B.R.X. WILL FINANCE ALL DEVELOPMENT

Deal With Consolidated Definitely Off Since Big Strike Made, Say Officials

The new strike on the B.R.X. Gold Mines, Ltd., property in the Bridge River district has definitely eliminated all possibility of any deal with the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company or any other corporation it is learned on good authority. Directors of the company have decided that they can now carry out development work to the final stage without any outside financial assistance, and already new machinery, including a large hoist, has been ordered to start the work of sinking a winze to a depth of 500 feet below the Number Three level, and so contact the vein picked up by the diamond drills.

The mine superintendent came to the Coast last week to purchase machinery, and it was stated that the new hoist is heavy enough to be capable of working from a much deeper level than the contemplated 500 feet.

The new shaft is to have a 50 degree inclination following the dip of the vein, and at a depth of about 200 feet it is expected to encounter a good grade of ore, since it was at that horizon that the diamond drill showed a change of rock formation to correspond with that in which the Pioneer and Bralorne veins occur.

MORE EASTERN CAPITAL SEEN

Region Gold Mines. Ltd., Expects Financial Deal to Be Completed Soon

More Eastern capital will be brought into British Columbia, this time to finance the Region Gold Mines, Ltd., which holds thirty-two claims adjoining the Wayside and the Queen Bess silver mines, seventy miles north of Kamloops, according to reports. The company is headed by Frank and Lester Patrick, well known throughout the continent for their activities in the field of sport, principally professional ice hockey.

H. R. Gale, of Gale, Ryan & Company, the fiscal agents, has left for the East to complete financing arrangements. It is understood that the operations will be financed through a public company incorporated last year, known as Region Mines, Ltd., which will take over the assets of Region Gold Mines on an exchange basis of three shares of the new company for one of the old. The original company, Region Gold Mines, Ltd., is a private incorporation, capitalized at 500,000 shares of fifty cents par, all of which would be outstanding.

Other holdings of this company, in addition to its Bridge River property and the Queen Bess Mine, include 1,500 acres of oil lands adjoining the Patrick well in the Cariboo and eighty acres of placer ground on the Fraser River.

Satisfactory reports have been made on both the Bridge River property and on the Queen Bess, the latter being equipped with a plant, which would require some repairs.

News of Mines

By Bate & Co., Ltd.

McIntyre Porcupine Mines, Ltd., report earnings of $3.40 per share after all write-offs for nine months of present fiscal year, as against $2.21 per share for a similar period of last year.

Base Metals Mining Corporation, operating at Field, B.C., are now treating about 300 tons a day and making regular shipments of concentrates to Europe.

Glenora Mines, Ltd., situate near the Thoburn, which is controlled by the Premier, report they have recently discovered the north vein by drilling and it is opening up in a most spectacular manner. This vein is very similar to the original "Touch Oaks" vein (now Thoburn), from which over $2,000,000 worth of high grade ore was shipped, which was the first production of the now famous Kirkland Lake Camp.

Gold mining will experience a vast expansion in the immediate future now that the United States has definitely determined to price gold at the minimum level of $34.45 per ounce. Canadian gold producers will, it is expected, fully participate in the prosperity of gold mining by increasing their production plants and opening up new properties. The prediction that Canada's gold production for 1934 will step up to $100,000,000 is confidently expected and renewed activity in all gold producing areas may be looked for in a marked degree for the coming season.

From California comes the news that D. L. Feathers has a bird store in Oakland, and E. B. Fox a fur shop. While up in Portland, Oregon, Neer and Farr have a trucking business.

Lost Gold Mine Found After 28 Years

Richfield Discovers New Vein

New discoveries in the main tunnel of the Richfield-Cariboo are said to include the uncovering of a fifth vein seven and a half feet in width, as well as several other veins, it has been learned unofficially.

Officials of the company have so far declined to issue a statement pending the receipt of further information from the property.

M. M. Reese, consulting engineer for the company, in his latest report stated that values in the first four veins encountered, while low, were promising at that stage of development, indicating that commercial values were to be expected ahead on this level in the veins outcropping on the surface.

NEW STRIKE AT BRALORNE

Sensational Values Uncovered on Seventh Level of Bridge River Mine

Another sensational strike has been made on the Bralorne mine in the Bridge River district, according to reports received here. The tunnel on the No. 7 level is stated to have encountered a hitherto unexplored ore body containing a vein varying in width from three to twenty feet, with an average width of seven feet.

Gold values in the new ore are exceptionally high, an early estimate placing the content at about $150 a ton on present gold prices.

The same report states that preparations are being made for an early start on work on the southeast end of the property, now owned by the Bradian, a Bralorne subsidiary. If weather conditions are favorable, development on this section of the property will be started within the next two months. At the present time the B.C. Electric Railway Company is building a power line from the Bralorne to the Bradian.

RED HAWK MAKES STEADY PROGRESS

Tunnel Now in Distance of 435 Feet—Expect to Encounter Vein Soon

Steady progress has been made on the tunnel being driven on the Bridge River property of the Red Hawk Mines, Ltd., it is reported here.

Three shifts are working on the tunnel, which is now in about 435 feet and is getting near the point where it is anticipated the downward extension of the Number Three zone would be encountered. The tunnel will give a depth of 275 feet on the ore zone.

Further development plans will depend upon the nature of the showings in the tunnel. Within the last twenty-seven feet of tunnelling, five or six stringers, running from four to six inches wide, have been cut, while for the last 200 feet the tunnel has been in the greenstone formation in which the gold-bearing veins of the district occur.

STILL ARGUING CASE FOR BREMA

Court of Appeal Hears Defence Offered in Favor of East Indian of This City

The argument on behalf of Brema, the East Indian convicted of having assaulted his fellow countryman, Nama, with intent to doing grievous bodily harm, was in progress all afternoon, yesterday, before the Court of Appeal. Stuart Henderson will continue his argument this morning.

Counsel for the convicted man contended that the trial judge could not hold as guilty one man of the six accused of the offence, in view of the fact that he was forced, in acquitting the others, to disbelieve the evidence of Nama.

Chief Justice Macdonald took the position that the trial judge, according to his report, inferred that the blood on the shoe of Brema, shown to be human blood, prompted the decision that Brema was guilty.

DEFENCE CONTENTION

Mr. Henderson took the position that all inferences to be drawn should be in favor of the defence until they were proved to the contrary. The blood on the boot of Brema, until proved to have been Nama's blood, could just as well have been obtained anywhere in the world as at the place of the attack.

He further argued that if the story of Nama were to be believed, there must have been a conspiracy to bring about the attack. All the men would be equally guilty with Brema if the latter were found guilty.

The next criminal appeal to follow the case of Rex vs. Brema will be that of Rex vs. Sponaugle.

News that the long-lost MacLeod claim has been discovered after a lapse of twenty-eight years, 300 miles north of Fort Simpson, in the Northwest Territories, has precipitated a rush of prospectors into one of the most difficult regions of the entire North. The MacLeod brothers, who died before filing their claims, murdered on their way out, left a map with a priest at Fort Simpson, but all trace of it had vanished until recently. Jack Stanler, veteran northern prospector, discovered the map and followed it to the claim. The MacLeod brothers brought out in 1907 a box, eighteen inches by eight, filled with nuggets, witnesses relate. Photographs above show: (1) The site of the find, the creek bed of MacLeod Creek, newly-discovered watershed. (2) Stanler's sluice box which he used in securing fine samples of coarse and flake gold from the creek bed. (3) The original sluice boxes used by the MacLeod brothers and abandoned by them in 1908.

FEAR OUTBREAK OF TERRORISM

Fatal Train Bombing in Jugoslavia Regarded as Menacing Prelude

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia, Jan. 23 (AP).—The possibility of a new campaign of political terrorism in Jugoslavia, similar to a series of train bombings several years ago, loomed yesterday as a Little Entente conference had a menacing prelude in a train bombing.

Three persons were killed and one seriously injured by an explosion in the Berlin-Vienna-Susak express train, near here. A resulting fire destroyed one passenger coach and damaged a sleeping car.

It was considered significant that only a fortnight ago the exiled former minister, Svetozar Pribichevich, issued an appeal from Paris, urging "a return of revolutionary action" to combat "King Alexander's dictatorship."

Subsequently, several Croations were arrested here on January 15 for printing Pribichevich's appeal. The bombings today were considered a sequel.

Foreign Ministers of Jugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, after discussing a Balkan bloc and a resumption of normal relations with Russia, as well as various recent international developments, planned to continue to Belgrade, where they will confer with the King.

ASKS ENVOY FOR ANSWER

Roosevelt Calls Luther to White House When Berlin Fails to Reply

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP).—Two strongly worded notes to Germany having failed to bring any answer, President Roosevelt called Dr. Hans Luther, the German ambassador to the White House, yesterday, to ask what that country intended doing about interest payments it owes the United States on the $1,000,000,000 of German bonds owned by Americans.

The President made it clear that he expected Germany to give United States creditors the same treatment accorded creditors of any other nation. Dr. Luther refused to make any comment on the conference when he left the White House. Later in the day, he conferred with Under Secretary of State William Phillips and again declined to comment.

The President's unusual action came after the Reichsbank had announced reductions in interest payments on German national, municipal and industrial bonds, which would cut the net receipts to bondholders to 65 per cent of the amounts due. Exceptions were made to favor full interest payment to bond holders in Switzerland and the Netherlands.

The State Department, in a note delivered by United States Ambassador William E. Dodd at Berlin, on January 2 and reiterated on January 19, protested against the reductions on the ground that Germany had sufficient funds to make the payments in full, but was improperly diverting such funds to other uses, including repurchasing of German bonds in the United States at bargain prices.

SIGN TRADE AGREEMENT

BERLIN, Jan. 23 (AP).—Germany and Chile signed a trade agreement, here, yesterday, under which Germany will take 106,000 tons of nitrates and other Chilean products. Arrangements were made to thaw frozen German credits in Chile.

ASYLUM INMATES MARCH TO SAFETY

Fire Destroys Part of Newfoundland Institution and for Time Threatens Main Building

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 23 (CP).—Three hundred inmates of the Newfoundland Insane Asylum were paraded to safety last night, as fire of undetermined origin swept through a big workroom, and for a time threatened the main building housing the patients.

Efficient attendants were credited by authorities with averting possible panic among the inmates, who, under orders, formed into lines and marched to the open.

The workroom was discovered in flames, gradually eating their way to the main building. With only a small supply of water on hand, attendants and volunteers formed bucket brigades and were able to subdue the fire before arrival of firemen, delayed by heavy snowdrifts blocking the roads.

Little Bedtime Stories

A Pleasant Visit

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

"What was a crazy thing to do?" demanded Danny, looking puzzled

Sitting safe and comfortable in the hollow stump to which Whitefoot the Woodmouse had led him, Danny Meadow Mouse told Whitefoot all about his adventures from the time he had visited the Smiling Pool right up to the moment when Whitefoot had come to his rescue. Whitefoot listened without saying a word until Danny's story was ended. Then he gravely shook his head.

"It was a crazy thing to do, Cousin Danny. It certainly was a crazy thing to do," said he.

"What was a crazy thing to do?" demanded Danny, looking puzzled.

"Going so far away from home when there was no need of it," replied Whitefoot. "I thought you were too wise to take such foolish risks. At your age you should know better. It might be excusable in a youngster with no family to think of, but one of your age should have known better."

"I guess you are right, Cousin Whitefoot," replied Danny meekly. "I've learned a lesson I'll never forget. I've had frights enough to last me all the rest of my life, and if I ever get home I'll never leave it again. I guess I ought to be starting along right now."

"I guess you ought to do nothing of the sort," retorted Whitefoot promptly. "The thing for you to do now is to rest and get yourself in condition."

Danny sighed. "I don't know but what you are right, Cousin Whitefoot," said he. "I really don't feel as if I could face danger again this night. My nerves are rather upset. This is a very nice, comfortable place you have here. It is one of the most comfortable places I've been in for a great while."

Whitefoot looked pleased. "I'm glad you like it," said he. "I think it is rather good myself. I have two or three other places quite as good. Now the thing for you to do, Cousin Danny, is to stay here the rest of the night and make yourself right at home."

To this Danny agreed, for he really did not feel equal to going any farther that night. So he and Whitefoot slept a little and talked a great deal. Danny learned many things about the Green Forest, and in turn told Whitefoot many things about the Green Meadows. Whitefoot was sure that the Green Forest was the finest place in all the Great World in which to live. Danny was sure that it didn't compare with the Green Meadows, and they argued the matter over and over. But the argument was quite good-natured and simply showed that the things one is used to are the things one loves best. To Danny the Green Forest was filled with terrible things. To Whitefoot the Green Meadows seemed a place where there could be no such thing as real safety. So they argued and argued and had a perfectly splendid time.

Next Story: Danny's Home-Coming.
